The Class of 1970 leaves its enduring mark on the student-sponsored sidewalk.

Six classes of Redskins work throughout the year,
To excel academically, athletically, and socially.
Some lead; others follow; all do their fair share.
Trophies, plaques, medals, and honors accumulate,
Adding to the glory that is Seneca Forever.

Redskins' war whoop is . . . Participate!

... To Welcome Our Quito Cousins

Together for the last time, smile.

Operation Amigo! It sounds like a TV program — one of the secret agent variety with lots of intriguing personalities crawling around in odd places. Come to think of it, Operation Amigo started out like that, as thirty people from south of the border descended on Seneca H. S. Thirty young people suddenly were transported from South America to an altogether different and virtually strange environment. "The Thirty" were up to take a look, see the sights, and meet the people. Like secret agents there was an air of mystery about them. Think back to that long ago day in the gym where you eagerly awaited the arrival of the bus from Miami. Recapture the thoughts that darted through your mind. Questions — weren't they? Will they be wearing sombreros? Will they all have black hair or is that a Mexican trait? Will the girls have on mini-skirts or something more traditional? Will they be poor or flashing twenty dollar bills extracted from the pants pockets of Brook's Brothers suits? Are sideburns a current fad in Ecuador or are they "in" only at Seneca? Yes, there can be no doubt about it; never at Seneca did an event shed a more mysterious glow of intrigue.

They came — a long line of them. You saw, and watched excitedly as the band rang out the Equadorian national anthem. As each Amigo met his host, squeals of delight erupted from their lips as well as yours. Suddenly, you were possessed with an over-powering urge to meet them, talk with them, find out what they were thinking about on this big day. In short, you realized that it was your chance to learn if the South American teenager differed much from yourself.

How friendly they were. They were as eager to meet you as you them. But, when you finally cornered one during lunch, prepared for an informative and invigorating discourse all that hard-learned Spanish seemed to vanish in the air, along with whatever English your companion had mastered. All those things you had wanted to say to them! Oh well, there's bound to be a Spanish IV student around somewhere.

The week gets under way, and you, like everyone else, find out that Amigos like to go shopping. Why not grab up a few, and take them to the Mall? Once there you find you that Amigos seem pleased enough to look, no one is buying. Finally, one Amigo lets you in on the big secret. There are still places untouched by inflation. In Quito shirts, rather than being one for eight dollars, are two for one dollar. You gather up everyone and move to a discount house and once again all is well.

There are parties every night. The real cultural change begins to take place, and somewhere in the confusion, you find the differences between the Equadorians and the Americans are there only to accent the similarities. You see happy people, bashful people, popular people, noisy people, occasionally some lonely people, lots of friendly people, some great dancers and some real clunkers, those that crave the limelight, and those that sat quietly in a corner and talked. There were those who oozed primness while others secretly planned to visit a Go-Go show. All types turn up at a party. Imagine that, speaking Spanish doesn't make them different; people are the same the world over.

Adios, Amigo

When the time comes to say goodbye, the tears flow.

In Ecuador there is no logical reason to get up at 6:30 a.m., so why do it here reasoned the Equadorians. Soon you found that this decision was universal. Everywhere, hosts could be heard complaining, "I told him that school just doesn't wait for those that sleep, but goes right on without them, and all he said was 'Good, they won't even miss me then!' It's bad enough not to have time for homework, but I should get to school to find out what it is."

Very quickly you realize that two things are painfully clear. One is that you are very fond of the Amigos, and the other is that they are going back to Quito in just one week. First, everyone is going to Mammoth Cave, the only joint trip that all the Americans and Amigos go on together. No matter what language you speak, caves are dark and mysterious, as well as exciting, different, and enjoyable, especially with friends, so this adventure is a roaring success. However, time continues to be completely unreasonable marking off the hours on the usual basis; so, the time to say goodbye comes before you expected it to, even though you were aware of the date all the time.

Finally, all is packed, even the pajamas that somebody left under their bed, and which a faithful mother salvaged before it was too late and brought them to school. The farewell assembly convenes in spite of the sincere dread of it on the part of all concerned, and the tears begin to flow. All goodbyes are said and it is time to board the bus, but it's not here!

Faces dry and conversation breaks out. Finally, the double-decked bus arrives. The Amigos climb aboard, waving and shouting their final goodbyes. As the bus pulls out onto Goldsmith Lane, we look back over the fun we had, consider the new friends we made, hope for a return visit soon, and say to each other, "Yes, this is an event to record in the Redskin Book of Memories."

All the Redskins participated in the assemblies that welcomed and bade farewell to the visitors from Quito, Ecuador. We wish them good luck always.

An Evening of Impromptu Theatre

A reading from "The Lottery"

April 25, was the first of two unique nights of informal and intimate entertainment, for all. For it was here, on stage, that an evening of impromptu theatre was presented by the host for the two evenings, Mr. Larry Simpson. It was here, back behind the drawn stage curtain, that the audience was seated for an intimate viewing of the evenings entertainment. The dark stage gave way to two raised platforms upon which the selected members of the speech and drama department performed six one-act plays, giving the setting an informal atmosphere. It was in this simple and unpretentious atmosphere that the imagination was allowed to run free and get the audience involved mentally by making up their own settings and scenes. A thank you and appreciative applause should be given to both Mr. Stricker and Mr. Parker for their work in making that rare event, a night to remember.

There Scott Carter sang "I Can't Get No Satisfaction" and "Ain't No Mountain High Enough".

With great expectations, the audience waited for the appearance of the mystery host of the 1969 Junior Class Talent Show. The moment came and the delight of the students was when they saw the host with his witty remarks and his wavy hair. A great deal of excitement was felt because the students were about to present a new show. It was the first time since the 1960s when the show was popular. The Redskins of today, inscribing their names on Seneca history, for the Redskins of tomorrow.

In the spring of each and every year a change comes over the entire population of Seneca. Interest in school hits an all time low, and participation deteriorates within the student body. What comes over them all of a sudden? It's spring fever of course, for which the only cure is for some dynamic, super colossal happening to occur, an event that will involve the whole school in working together again. A terrific example is something like . . . something like . . . like the . . .

Seneca Sidewalk!!

One Little . . Two Little . . Three Thousand

Getting into the stretch of things

It was in the early fall of 1968 in order to get the students to work for themselves and to furnish their own ideas that the efficient Seneca Student Council organized a suggestion box in the front hallway. Did someone say that this is not important? It just so happens that one day a junior by the name of Bob Vice dropped a suggestion into the box.

That is how the whole business about the courtyard sidewalk got started. It went through the various committees and finally a completion date was set up by the Council's president Barry Amyx. He had already found a contractor to do the job, a man with the familiar name of Mr. Cosby, who was willing to lay the sidewalk as soon as the winter snows and rains were over.

It wasn't long until the date set by Barry and Mr. Cosby came and went. As the rains continued, the sidewalk assumed greater importance. The walk would not only provide the students a way to avoid the heavy traffic in the front hall, giving them more time to get to class, it would also prevent them getting bogged down in the mud. Then it was decided that the sidewalk should be something unique, a sidewalk upon which any student who bought a fifty cent block could leave something in memory of himself that would always be a part of the school just as the school would forever remain part of him. Yes, the cure for spring fever was now taking effect, the entire student body became involved in an interesting and worthwhile project.

When the day came havoc broke loose! However, in spite of all the disasters such as Barry's being absent that day and dropping the whole operation without warning into Tom Welsh's hands, too many people, and not enough space for all, with the ninety-two degree hot broiling sun that dried the concrete too rapidly for some writers, the walk was all that was needed to boost the school's morale. With the spring illness cured that day would go down as one to always be remembered by the '69 Seneca students and Lonesome.

We congratulate Barry Amyx for a job well-done.

Warriors and Squaws Assume Leadership

Cooperation, decisive judgment, and outstanding leadership qualities are the keys to the production and distribution of an outstanding yearbook. April third was the chosen day on which the leadership of the ARROW changed hands.

The ARROW staff held its annual banquet at the Essex House on Bardstown Road. After the luncheon our sponsor of eleven years, Mrs. Mildred Kraft presented a synopsis of the year's achievements.

Then came the announcements all of us were waiting for, the new editorships for ARROW '70. The room was so quiet you could hear the rustle of the waitresses' skirts as they bustled by the tables. One at a time the 1969 editors advanced to the head table, selected an envelope, read its contents, and announced their successors. More breaths were held and more gasps of relief exhaled that day as each staff member received the job that he had hoped would be his for the next year. Who would be Editor-in-chief of the Redskins' favorite book? Finally Peter Gaddie lifted the last envelope off the table and asked Linda Luckat to come forward and accept the position. A broad smile succeeded the shocked gasp of relief that whispered from her lips as the 1970 staff applauded.

The luncheon's end drew near and Mrs. Kraft passed out the ARROW pins to our latest one year members who had survived the rigors of "the wall" and the trials of being a junior in school yet a freshman on the yearbook staff. Then we prepared to return to school; it was time to get to work on ARROW '70.

. . . Preside at Council Fires

Tom Welsh, the newly elected president of the Student Council

Barbara Smith, the pretty vice president

The Student Council constitutes the student voice in school activities and affairs at Seneca High School. The elected members of this important organization have responsibilities to their fellow Redskins, the administration, faculty members and their own community.

The officers of the Student Council are not elected by popularity, only by merit, which they have earned in the eyes of their student co-workers during their years as hard, earnest workers. Seneca has always been very fortunate in electing capable, efficient, responsive, hard-working persons to serve as representatives and officers.

The annual elections are held in the springtime of the year. Those students desiring to run for an office, submit a letter with their qualifications and reasons for wanting the office. The Council has the student's grades checked and his qualifications verified. Those remaining who are eligible are given an opportunity to deliver a speech before the Council. The Council members vote, the two students receiving the most votes run off for the office.

These candidates have one week to campaign around school. Posters, name tags, and souvenirs are seen everywhere. On the last day of the week a student assembly is held; here the candidates give their speeches and a skit. The following day the students elect their officers. The officers for "70" are Tom Welsh, president; Barbara Smith, vice president; Bob Vice, treasurer; and Ellen McCluggage, secretary.

Junior Redskins Honored by N.H.S.

Mike Hess and Dixie Smith enjoyed the games at the N.H.S. induction party

Is Debbie Plough about going to win or is she just getting a slow start?

The N.H.S. members played the induction for the unsuspecting juniors

The gym that morning proclaimed loudly that a mystery was about to be uncovered. Nervous juniors walked into the gym to experience a part of becoming seniors: the National Honor Society induction. As the colleges were read and the inductees' names were called, the faces of the new members showed either the thrill of a dream come true or the surprise of an impossible hope, but the happiness of achievement radiated from every face. Each of these Redskins received this high honor for the same reasons. They participated in and in some cases led many of the N.H.S. organizations, but this is true of all Redskins. The point that set these twenty-eight students apart from their classmates was the evaluation of their fine characters and the fact that each maintained the scholastic average of 3.5 even though their busy schedules seemed to leave little time for study. With one year of high school and twenty-eight seniors to be, sound scholarship, character, service and leadership reaped satisfying rewards.

Class of 1969 in Costume

Rags became the appropriate dress for the waitresses in the Thieves Kitchen.

A strange thing happened in the Senior gym on the night of May 23. A fifteen minutes past seven, Bortin and Cyle straggled through the doors and met Al Capone right in front of Lonesome's startled eyes.

Our Redskin took the part on foot seriously as he collected the gold.

As the minutes ticked by, equally formidable characters began filtering through the doors and into the mysterious enclosure in the middle of the gym. Wearing hats pulled low over the eyes, double-breasted coats with huge neckties, and smoking cigars, their whispering grew into talking and then outright laughter. The size over the door's and Thieves Kitchen and any casual passerby must have been puzzled by this motley gathering. Was it a meeting of the criminal underworld? No—it was Senior Activity 1969! The theme was, of course, Thieves Kitchen, taken right out of 19th century London from the pages of Oliver Twist. The whole criminal world setting had been transported as if by magic to the 20th century. The only innovation was the Chaperon—a band that set the beat. The excitement of the whole affair was at a maximum as Redskin's disguise sealed it. Steve Lashby, made up as Fagin, was Master of Ceremonies. At four long variety with exceptional acts was performed throughout the evening. When the time came to leave, the crowd was reluctant, it strained to hear the last beats of the music. But finally the lights grew dim, and when the last criminal wandered out, the only evidences of the fun was the conspicuous stillness that covered the gym.

A trio of singing girls provided part of the night's entertainment.

The morning assembly for Senior Awards had students lined up from door to door in the gymnasium. Quite an accomplishment for a Senior Class

Reverend Grady Nutt spoke at the Senior Banquet given for the Class of 1969

As their Senior year drew to a close, the Class of 1969 gathered for many momentous events. Among these were the Morning Awards program and the Senior Banquet accompanied by the Night Awards program. Both occasions served to commemorate four years of hard work by many.

Bubbling laughter permeated the atmosphere of the cafeteria as the Reverend Grady Nutt delivered an enlightening as well as delightful message. He discussed the adjustments that the young must make as they go forth into an adult world, and encouraged tolerance of others always.

After the banquet the Seniors accompanied by parents and dates retired to the gym to enjoy the Awards presentations. Scholarships and special awards came from national, state, and local sources. They were given for outstanding achievement in academics, leadership, vocal and instrumental music, home economics, typing and office work excellence, and sports.

The joy of each recipient was reflected in the proud smile on his parent's face. It was another wonderful night to record in the Redskins' Book of Memories

From the dark exterior of the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center I walked into the night mystery of the East. # The Seniors Graduated . . . And Then . . .

Graduation 1919

Mr. Wilson adding a few farewell words to the Seniors

There Were Five Classes Left to Carry On.

The single most important and memorable event in the lives of those who attend school, is the ceremony at the completion of their four years of high school. A ceremony which shows the attaining and the completion of each individual's goals and ambitions. The graduation is just a couple of simple ceremonies that stand for one of the greatest achievements that one can reach in their educational life that would also be beneficial to every facet of the future. A quick three hours or less, which means so much to so many, a time in which their four years of hard work and study turns into a lifetime of memories, as they take a gigantic step into the future.

So was the importance of the Ninth Graduation of Seneca to those five hundred seventy students who were taking part in the ceremonies. The first step in the graduation took place on Sun. May 25, 1969, in the form of the ninth Baccalaureate Service at the State Fair Grounds. The ceremony started and ended with the traditional processional and the recessional, accompanied by Margaret Herde on the organ and Vernon Askey at the trumpet. As the last flowing white robe took its seat, the class president, Frank Loudermilk, gave the invocation and was followed by the Seneca Chorale under the direction of Mr. Orville Williams. Next came the address by the Rabbi Solomon Roodman about what the future holds and what they would be expected to do in society. With a few words from Peter C. Lutkin, the benediction was given by the class vice-president, Steve Cosby.

It was on Wed. May 28, that the actual graduation took place at the Ninth Commencement Exercise. Both excitement and sadness could be felt in the air. As the white robes and mortar boards once again started in the processional, one could almost sense the deep emotion of the moment for each and every person, as they sat through the invocation, the two Chorale numbers and even up to the address by Minister Robert Russell. When the time came for the awarding of the diplomas, there was no trouble in seeing the great pride in each and every face. So with the benediction by Rev. Irvin Moxley, Graduation '69 closed with a congratulation to all.

Standing in full harmony to the end.

Patriots Step On the Moon

Since the beginning of time, man has attacked many frontiers, passing over each with varying degrees of success or failure. The one frontier man only dreamed of conquering was the dark, remote realm of the universe. In July, 1969, man ceased dreaming and beheld, with the help of television, the first step needed to open that mysterious, seemingly endless frontier.

"One small step for man, a giant leap for mankind." These were the words spoken by astronaut Neil Armstrong as he placed his foot on the lunar surface. Man had reached the moon and in the company of astronaut Edwin Aldrin planted there the red, white, and blue, star-spangled American flag, symbol of the land of the free and the home of the brave patriots who dared to risk their all to reach this frontier. After almost two hours of exploration, the men lifted the lunar module off the moon and met Astronaut Michael Collins in the space ship for the return trip to earth.

Lonesome's Redskins can look proudly upon that venture and say that we are a part of that "happening," we are individual Americans and patriots of the greatest nation ever developed. Our arrows shoot straight and true, and our drumbeats join others in creating the vital throb of this nation's heartbeat.

With pride and admiration we salute three of our fellow American tribesmen who have stepped forward for the good of mankind, the crew of the

Vacation . . . Then There Were None

Senior Day

Tuesday, June 3, 1969, was a day to reflect on the valuable experience we had during a wonderful school year. For me, a freshman, that day was the end of the beginning of my high school career. I felt that both my classmates and I had changed — we had matured. Due to a dedicated faculty, we were much better informed than when we had made our high school debut just nine months before. The upperclassmen called us "children," but we knew we were developing some of the attributes of future leaders.

The bell rang at three o'clock, and many departed gladly, but I looked forward to the day in September when I would walk these halls again — as a sophomore.

You may be gone — but you will never be forgotten.
Others Believe

I entered Seneca with a depressed heart. The last day of school had unwisely come. Saying goodbye to adored teachers was difficult, but giving up my beloved books that had brought me joy and comfort was the straw that broke the camel's back. I laid them on the counter and ran from the bookstore with tears streaming down my face. I passed the clean and trashless lunchroom, hoping for a whiff of the delicious aromas of past lunches, but to no avail. I dejectedly walked to my bus, observing other wet-eyed students, looking hopeless and sad. The thought of a vacation of swimming and traveling made me want to die, but courage will help me through.

By the way, anyone who believes this, STAND ON YOUR HEAD!!

Seneca Salutes

MR. CHARLES JACKSON

"No man was ever great without divine inspiration." Cicero

Mr. Jackson stood before his classes and explained world history inspiring his students to search for their heritage. Out on the diamond Mr. Jackson coached the baseball team to do their best. Mr. Jackson inspired the Good News Club with a devotionals each morning. On the track Mr. Jackson timed the Cross Country team as they practiced systematically over a two to five mile course, always trying to improve in both form and speed. Mr. Jackson has been a magnanimous source of inspiration to many Seneca students in every field that he has worked. This man was indeed worthy of being saluted by the Seneca students.

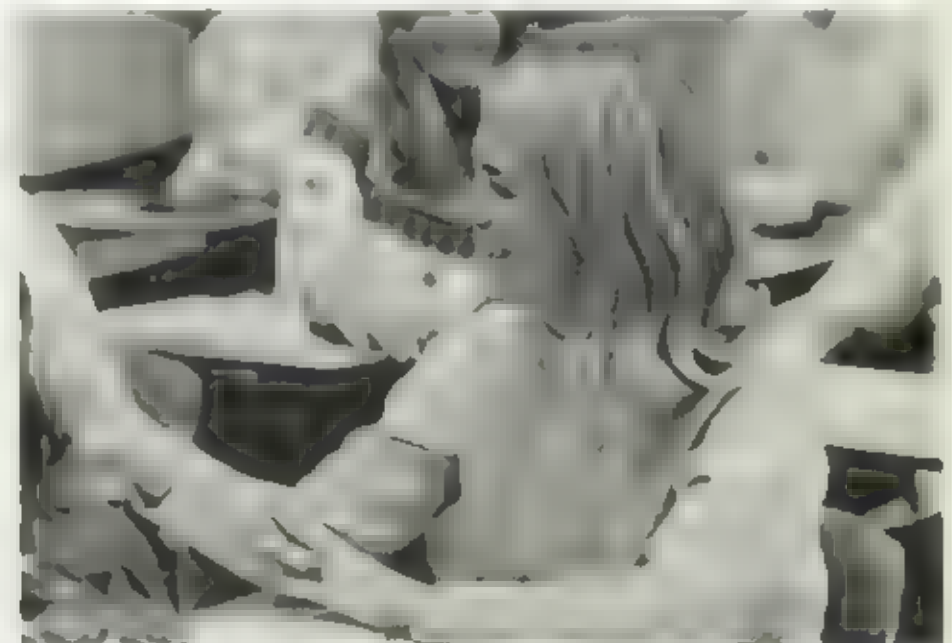

MISS MARGARET ARNOLD

Seneca's tradition of excellence is based on the dedication of the teachers. Miss Arnold is a prime example of dedication. In her French classes, Miss Arnold gave to and received from her students more than was usually expected. The "more" Miss Arnold received was the respect of the students in addition to becoming a friend and advisor to them. To be at the top in the teaching field, as Miss Arnold has always been, required interest in students beyond the classroom. Miss Arnold became sponsor of the Senior French Club and founded the French Singing Group to satisfy a life-long interest in French as well as in students. Seneca salutes Miss Arnold, and wishes her many more happy years at Seneca High School.

CRAIG WILLIAMS

He considered himself to be a mischievous, humorous cut-up, but the students at Seneca knew him as a dependable, talented, friendly person. A mere glance in his direction and Craig Williams would return a warm smile and friendly hello. One never found it difficult to see Craig in the halls, only to keep up with him. The Junior Classical League presidency kept him busy, but a glance in the Sentinel room showed he had another fulltime job. Craig's participation in Youth Speaks and the Public Relation Club represented his interest in people. It was no surprise that Craig intends to be a social worker. For our pride in him, Seneca now salutes Craig Williams.

LAURA STEPHENS

How could one describe a goddess among women, an angel? Try the name Laura Stephens. Laura was poised, intelligent, compassionate, witty, and dependable. Her life was one of activity that intertwined itself with the lives of others, helping and bringing happiness to them all. She achieved an academic excellence that was shown in her membership of the Beta Club and National Honor Society. She was the Features Editor of the Arrow and was vice-president of Quill and Scroll. Her roles in Youth Speaks and the French Club kept her busy along with her Presidency of the FTA. The most accurate place to find Laura would have been in the hearts of every Redskin who knew her. She was sure to be there.

Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew congratulates Gary McDonough, Seneca's 1969 Presidential Scholar

The outstanding scholastic record earned by Gary McDonough during his four years at Seneca High School is one that will be remembered for some time to come. Gary maintained a 4.0 standing throughout these learning years of his lifetime. Gary won many awards for his overall knowledge, but, as a wise man always does, he was quick to credit those who taught him. He repaid his teachers by doing superb work. His high scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test automatically nominated him as one of the contestants for Kentucky's Star Student.

When requested to write an essay describing his favorite teacher, he wrote of Miss Susan Dunlap, saying, "Her enthusiasm and vitality, knowledgeability and culture, the understanding and the care that she constantly expresses have left a profound impression on my ideas, goals, and life."

"The voice of the intellect is a soft one, but it does not rest until it has gained a hearing. This is one of the few points in which one may be optimistic about the future of mankind."

Freud

Gary was a National Honor Society member, belonged to the Beta Club, a National Merit Finalist, National Merit Scholarship winner, Yale University National Merit Scholar, Reader's Digest Valedictorian Award winner, Courier Journal Scholastic Award winner, and Seneca's Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Star Student winner.

The most important award was announced at the graduation ceremonies. Gary slowly walked in to sit one more time with his class, the Seniors of 1969. Mr. Wilson advanced to the podium to address the audience. It was then that he announced that Gary McDonough had been selected as a Presidential Scholar. This was truly an award of excellence in academic achievement for one young man who worked earnestly.

One of the first steps the Board of Education took this year was to name Mr. W. K. Niman, former principal of Fern Creek High School, Human Relations Co-ordinator. Mr. Niman's new position brought him to Seneca in September, where he worked closely with Mr. Wilson to form a Communication Board for our school. The Communication Board consisted of the student leaders, supervised by Mr. Wilson and Mr. Niman. These students had the opportunity to attend the monthly meetings of the Board of Education and began to feel personally involved in its operation.

The Communications Board's first act was to send a signed petition to the Board of Education requesting that our newly constructed gym be named in honor of Mr. Kenneth B. Farmer. At the next meeting the suggested names were reviewed and the Kenneth B. Farmer Physical Education Building was chosen as the name. This was the first gym in Jefferson County to be named for some honored person although in the past schools have been named in this manner.

As Human Relations Co-ordinator, Mr. Niman, with two Seneca seniors, Carolyn Haskell and Bill Luttrell, were representatives to a committee set up by the Jefferson County Administration. The committee's work was to review the problems dealing with human relations throughout the schools.

The trend of student participation in the Jefferson County System was accepted with enthusiasm and seriousness by the students. Hopefully the students and school administrators gained from the experience.

ARROW 1970

Opening ARROW '70 can be compared to uncapping a bottle containing a genie. Pictorial presentations, journalistic and imaginative writings help create the Spirit of Seneca which the ARROW staff and sponsor know so well how to capture and bottle.

Enjoy it! It's your life and your work. It's the times you spent at Seneca during the past year. It is your year of saying and proving that we can learn and live together as we surely move toward a better world.

Congratulations to a great student body which proves each day that we can make things more relevant and at the same time practice reverence.

Respectfully,

Mr. Wilson

The office door remains open and the smile which greets those who enter creates an air of friendliness which spreads throughout the Redskin teepee. Mr. William Wilson, principal of Seneca High School, lets his ideas and suggestions flow to all concerned. Just as a wise chief raises smoke signals to his surrounding tribesmen, Mr. Wilson, who is in his second year as principal, is undoubtedly a friend to all. He is a man who cares and takes action to improve the environment of Seneca. In the midst of all the present day talk about the "communication gap" or the "generation gap" we find this adult to whom the talk cannot apply. For this is a friend that neither student or teacher finds difficult to talk to. If he can be of any help to you, your problems are his problems. In the same respect Mr. Wilson is not hesitant to ask for your help when he is in need. His open door policy and his willingness to listen have earned Sen eca's principal an unequalled respect.

Mr. Wilson and his capable assistants, Mr. Dennis Robertson and Mr. William Craigmyle, have worked hard to improve Seneca and make it a better, more comfortable and more respectable place to live and learn in. Their accomplishments are many. In the past two years Seneca has received a new gym, a burglar alarm system and a new wave of communication through the administration's newly formed communications board. The seniors have been blessed with the beginning of a senior lunchroom, soon to become a senior lounge. These are but a few of the administration's many accomplishments which keep Seneca going. For their hard work and understanding, the students of Seneca would like to thank our administrators for "making things go!"

Mr. Wilson is always there to lend you a helping hand.

Counselors

Mr. Palmer and Mrs. Ramsey, discuss one of the student problems that have come up

The job of getting ninth grade students settled into high school, falls into the hands of Miss Polsgrove

Early every spring, just after the second semester rolls around, the counselors set about helping the students in choosing their curriculum for next year. Usually this is a long and tedious process, but now it can be done quickly and easily thanks to the use of computers.

Their job, is this and much, much more. Theirs is the responsibility for finding the solution to the endless problems of each and every Redskin that turn up on their desks. Our counselors perform an enormous service as they aid the students in every possible facet of school life.

Among our qualified counseling staff, is Mrs. Louise Ramsey, Dean of the Senior Girls, and Dean of the Advanced Program. She holds an A.B. degree from Western Kentucky State University and her Masters' from the University of Louisville.

Miss Selma Stephens, received her B.S. degree from Eastern State University and her Masters' from the University of Kentucky. She is now filling the position of Dean of Sophomore and Junior Girls

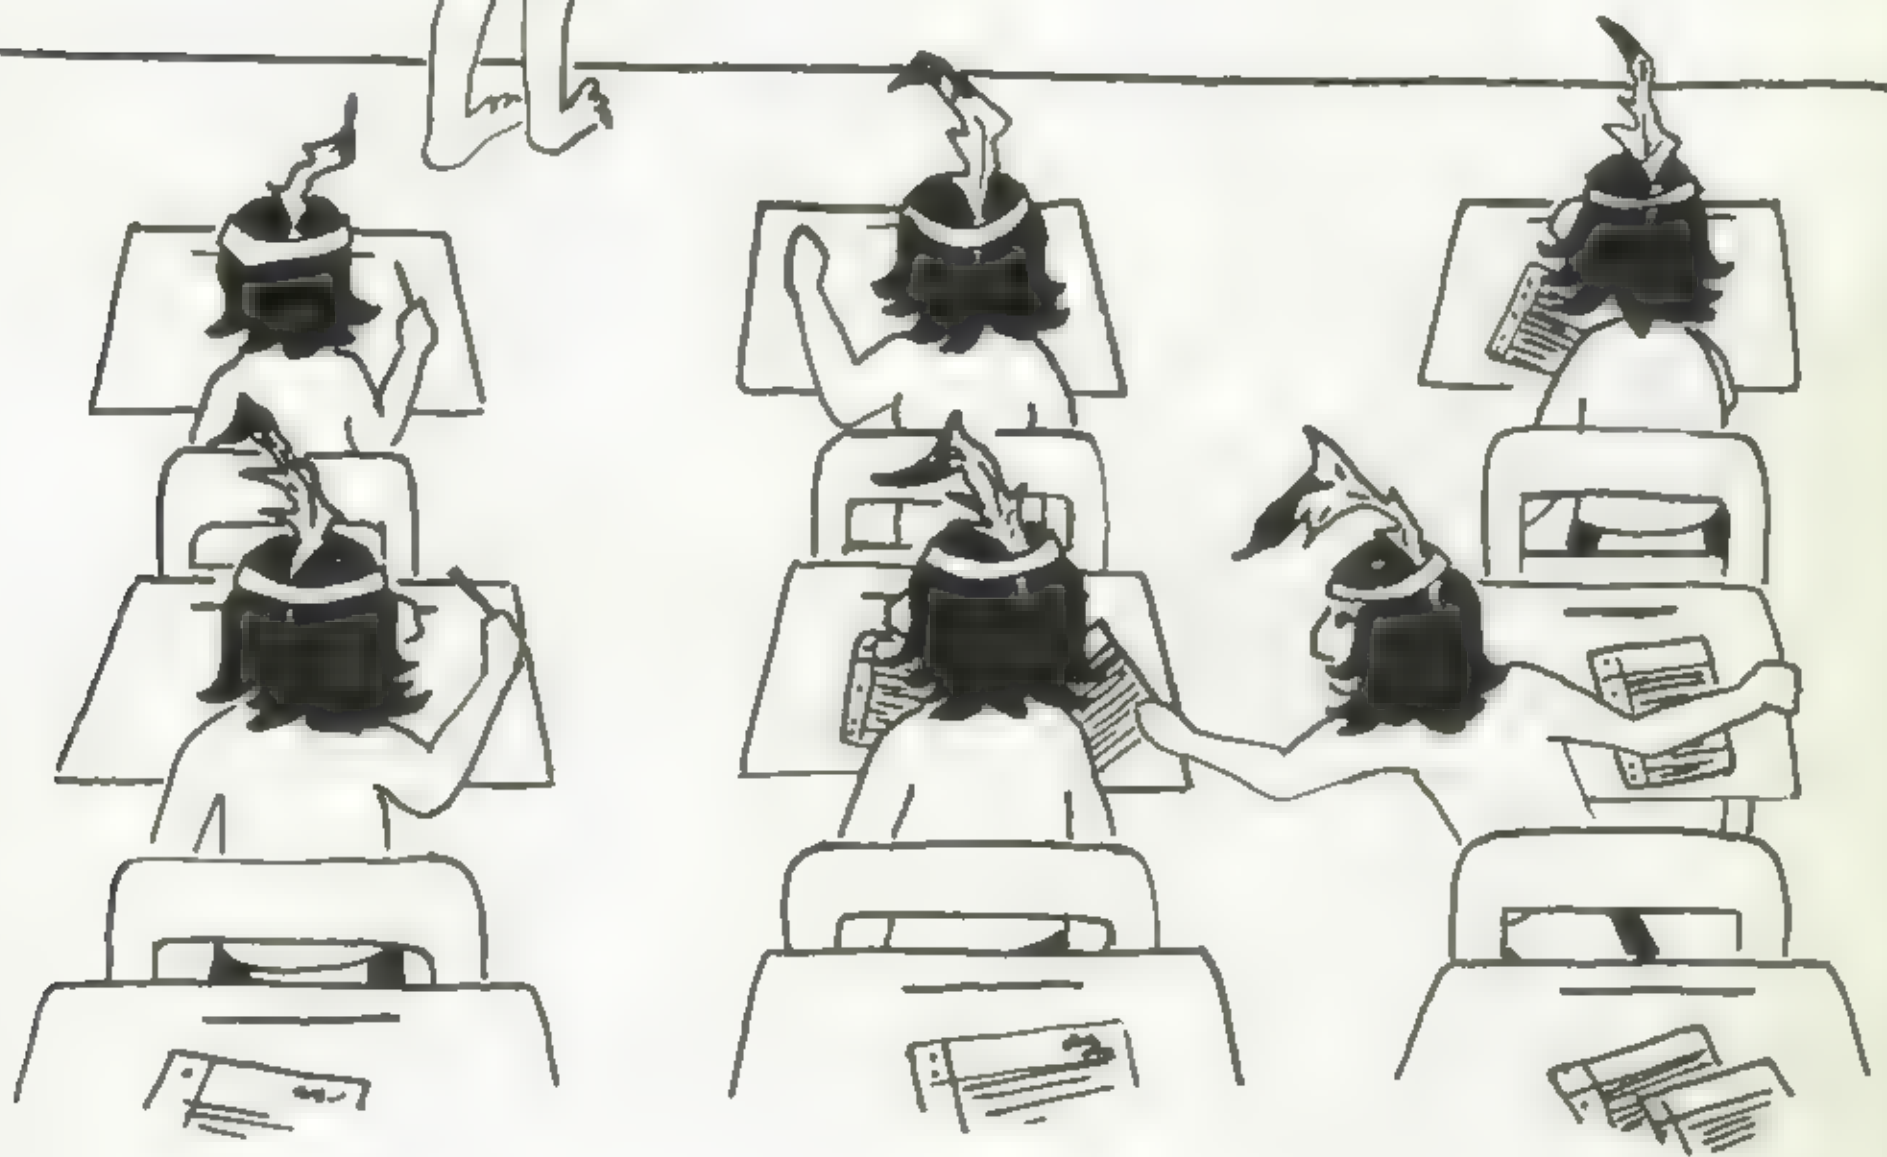

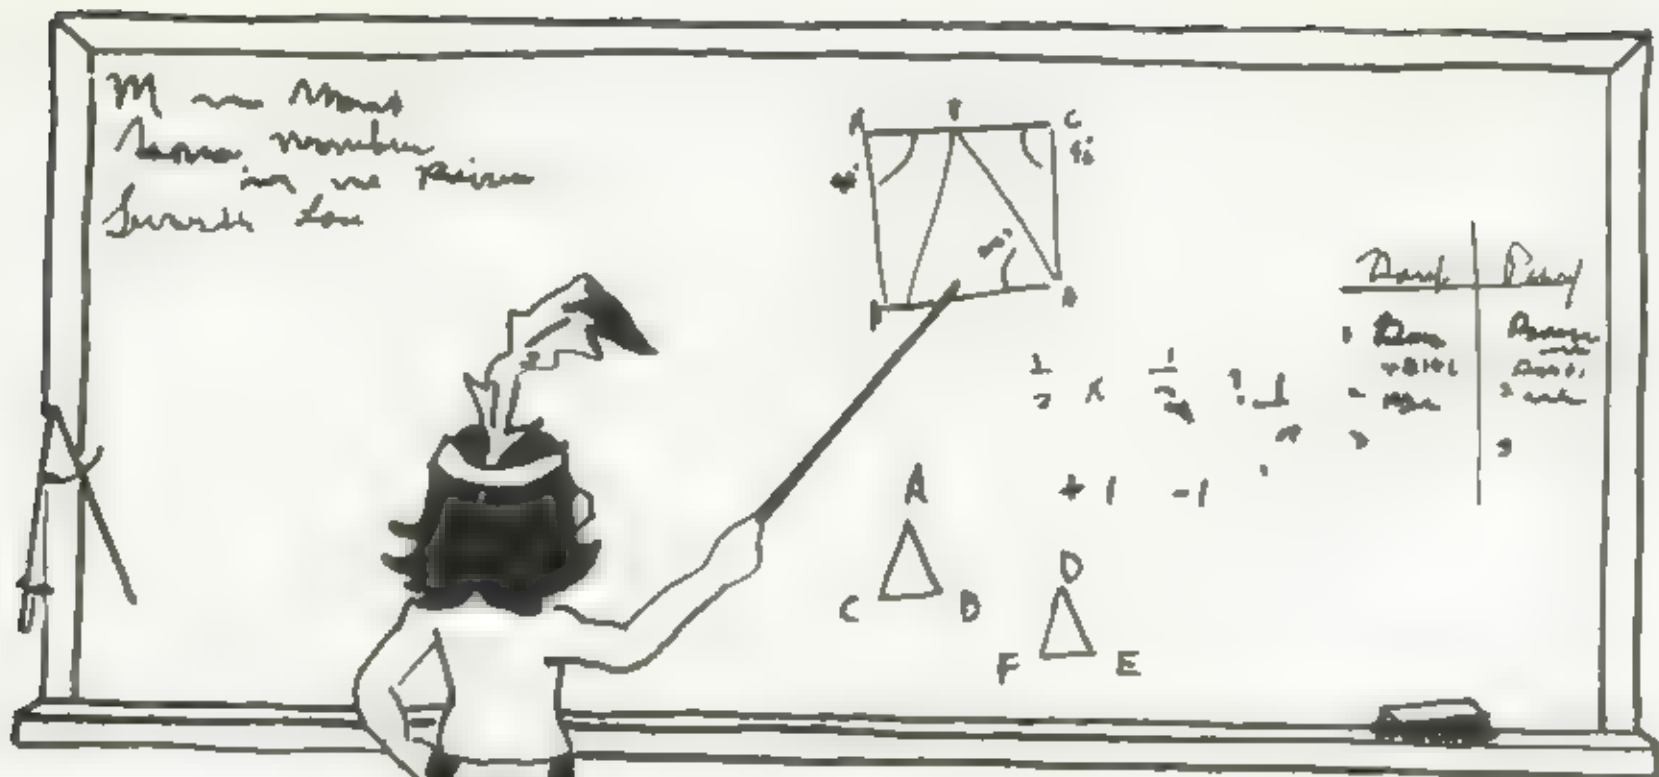

This is the second year that Miss Ginny Polsgrove has served as Dean of Freshman Boys and Girls. She is a graduate of Georgetown College where she got her A.B. degree. Her Masters' Degree was received at the University of Louisville.

Mr. Tom Ash is serving as the Dean of Sophomore and Junior Boys. He received his B.S. Degree and his M.E. Degree both from the University of Louisville.

Serving as the Dean of Senior Boys, is Mr. Robert Palmer. He received both his A.B. and his Masters' Degree from the University of Kentucky.

Miss Stephens and Mr. Ash, counsel the Sophomores and Juniors toward their Senior year

MAKE YOUR 1970 CHOICE

When the counselors visited the junior and sophomore classes concerning the making of schedules for Fall 1970, they succeeded in stirring up quite a furor. "You now have a choice of selecting two or four of these 28 subjects for a half credit each to fulfill your remaining English requirement for graduation. The list includes everything from Mass Media and Ethnic Literature to Mythology and Our English Heritage, including regular English III and English IV classes for one credit yearly."

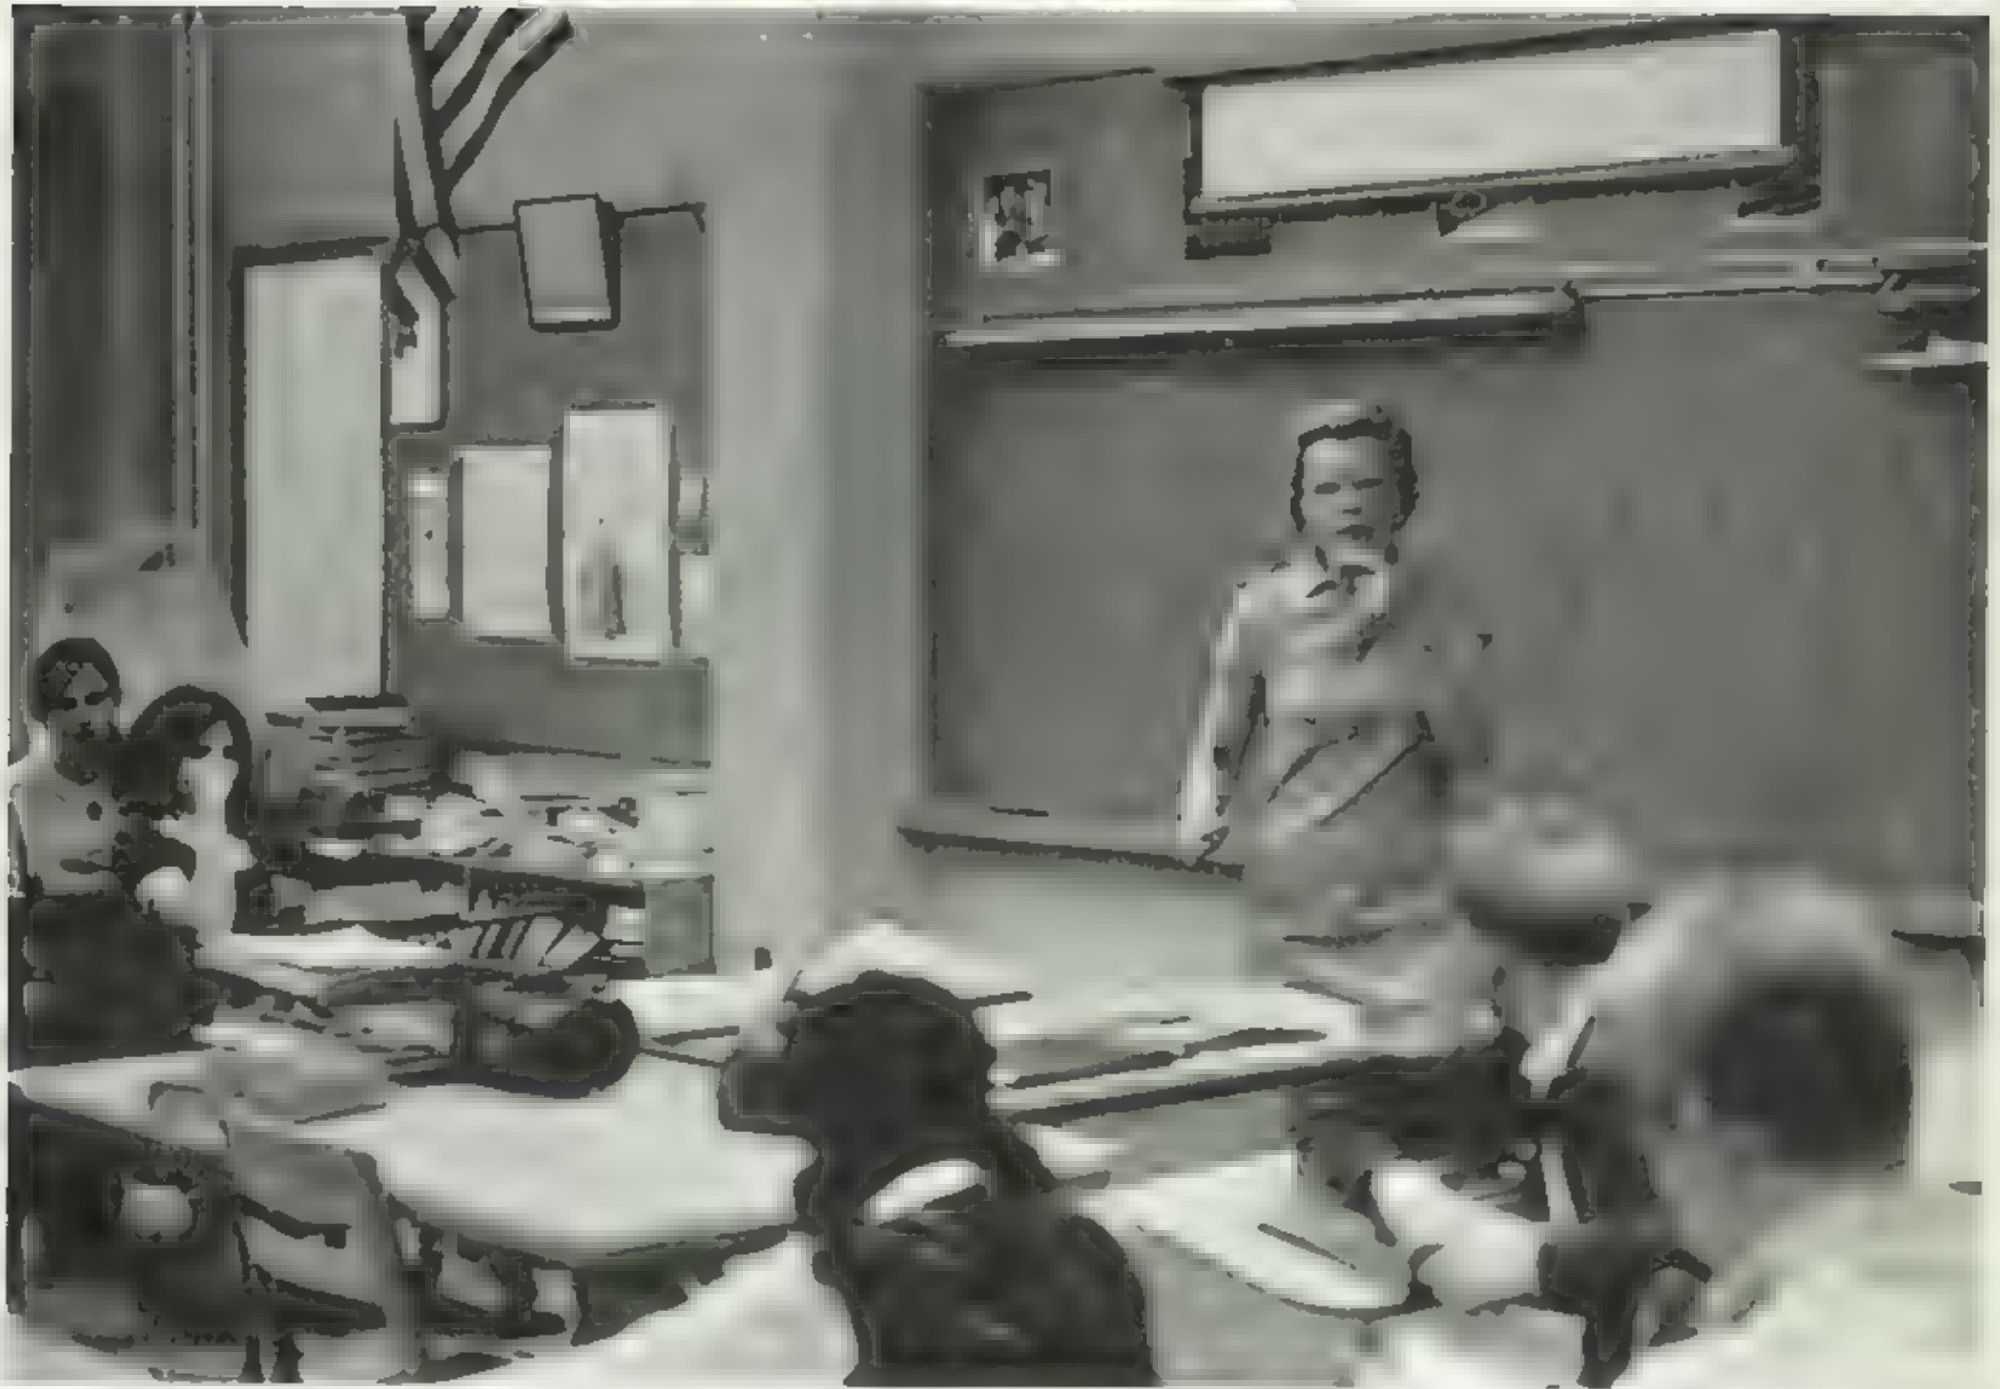

We had a time deciding whether to take Great Books, Science Fiction, Shakespeare, or World Literature. Some of us can't wait to get involved in Research Techniques, Linguistics, History of Drama, and Semantics. In fact, some have already decided to take extra courses for electives. There is only one rule — we must take a course each semester — to be sure of the Kentucky requirement for graduation.

The ever-exciting Speech and Drama Dept. produced its usual outstanding musical success this year under Mr. Stickler's direction and the juniors presented "David and Lisa," directed by Mr. Parker.

As the twenty-first century approaches, the traditional methods of studying English are becoming obsolete. Department chairman Mrs. Mildred Kraft says we're remaining relevant.

Mathematics Department

The Colonel leans over the podium to offer some sage advice — I need with good humor

Two years of math are required for graduation, but one may acquire five credits in a variety of courses. All of our thirteen teachers are more than capable to aid the Seneca students in higher education.

The future of America lies in the hands of our young people; but, the basis of their achievements lies in the hands of the Seneca educators.

The chairman of the mathematics department is Mr. Otis Mays.

As the United States sends her heroic astronauts and scientific instruments to the moon, we all become more aware of the significance of a good science background. Seneca's science department offers an excellent opportunity to our young people to develop their interests in the astronomical and adventurous future which science holds.

Understanding chemistry without knowing the Periodic Chart is like trying to cook without ingredients and fire.

Language Department

Mrs. Gertrude Chaudoin (above) and Mrs. Eleanor McDonald, sponsors of Seneca's Junior Classical League, one of our most active and meaningful organizations, proved long ago that LATIN IS A LIVELY LANGUAGE — the students enjoy it! In today's world a language barrier is a thing of the past, due to the excellent teaching and guidance of outstanding French, Spanish, German and Russian instructors. Students are fortunate to attend a secondary school that offers five languages and an equal number of clubs for student study and enjoyment.

Social Studies

The Seneca Social Studies department offers World History, American History, Civics, World Geography, Psychology, Humanities, Problems in both American as well as World Living, and Government.

With such a good variety from which to choose, every student has ample opportunity to select a subject which interests him or a topic that will enlarge his scope of knowledge. All United States students are required to take American history, and Kentucky laws state that a student must study one other social subject to qualify for graduation from high school.

The way Mrs. Morgan discusses the important events in our history makes us realize how lucky we are to be American citizens

Business Departments

Where does business start and stop? Certainly, today's Home Economics expert, the housewife, is expected to know how to balance a budget as well as a bookkeeper does for a large organization. Your vocational abilities cannot be separated from your relationships with the others in the everyday, human workshop of this modern world through which we daily thread our paths together. By business we no longer mean that we can type and take shorthand; a little law and record-keeping fits in well with our daily activities. Each of us should prepare himself to be able to perform all of these jobs to some degree of efficiency for his own self-preservation and protection.

Dr. Barnes, Professor of English, Morehead, introduces from left: Mrs. Kraft, Jonnie Cozine, Gary Volk, Pattie Potry, Bill Painter, and Eddie Lasy with back to camera

This is your opportunity to voice an opinion that will be heard by many

This is fun! Now I know what they mean when they say, "See yourself as others see you"

After doing research and writing essays on our favorite epic heroes, five of our English I class compiled a script on the Epic. After some review we modernized it to include such relevant potential heroes and heroines as Seneca's own Westley Unseld and Diane Sawyer who is a TV personality locally on her own right.

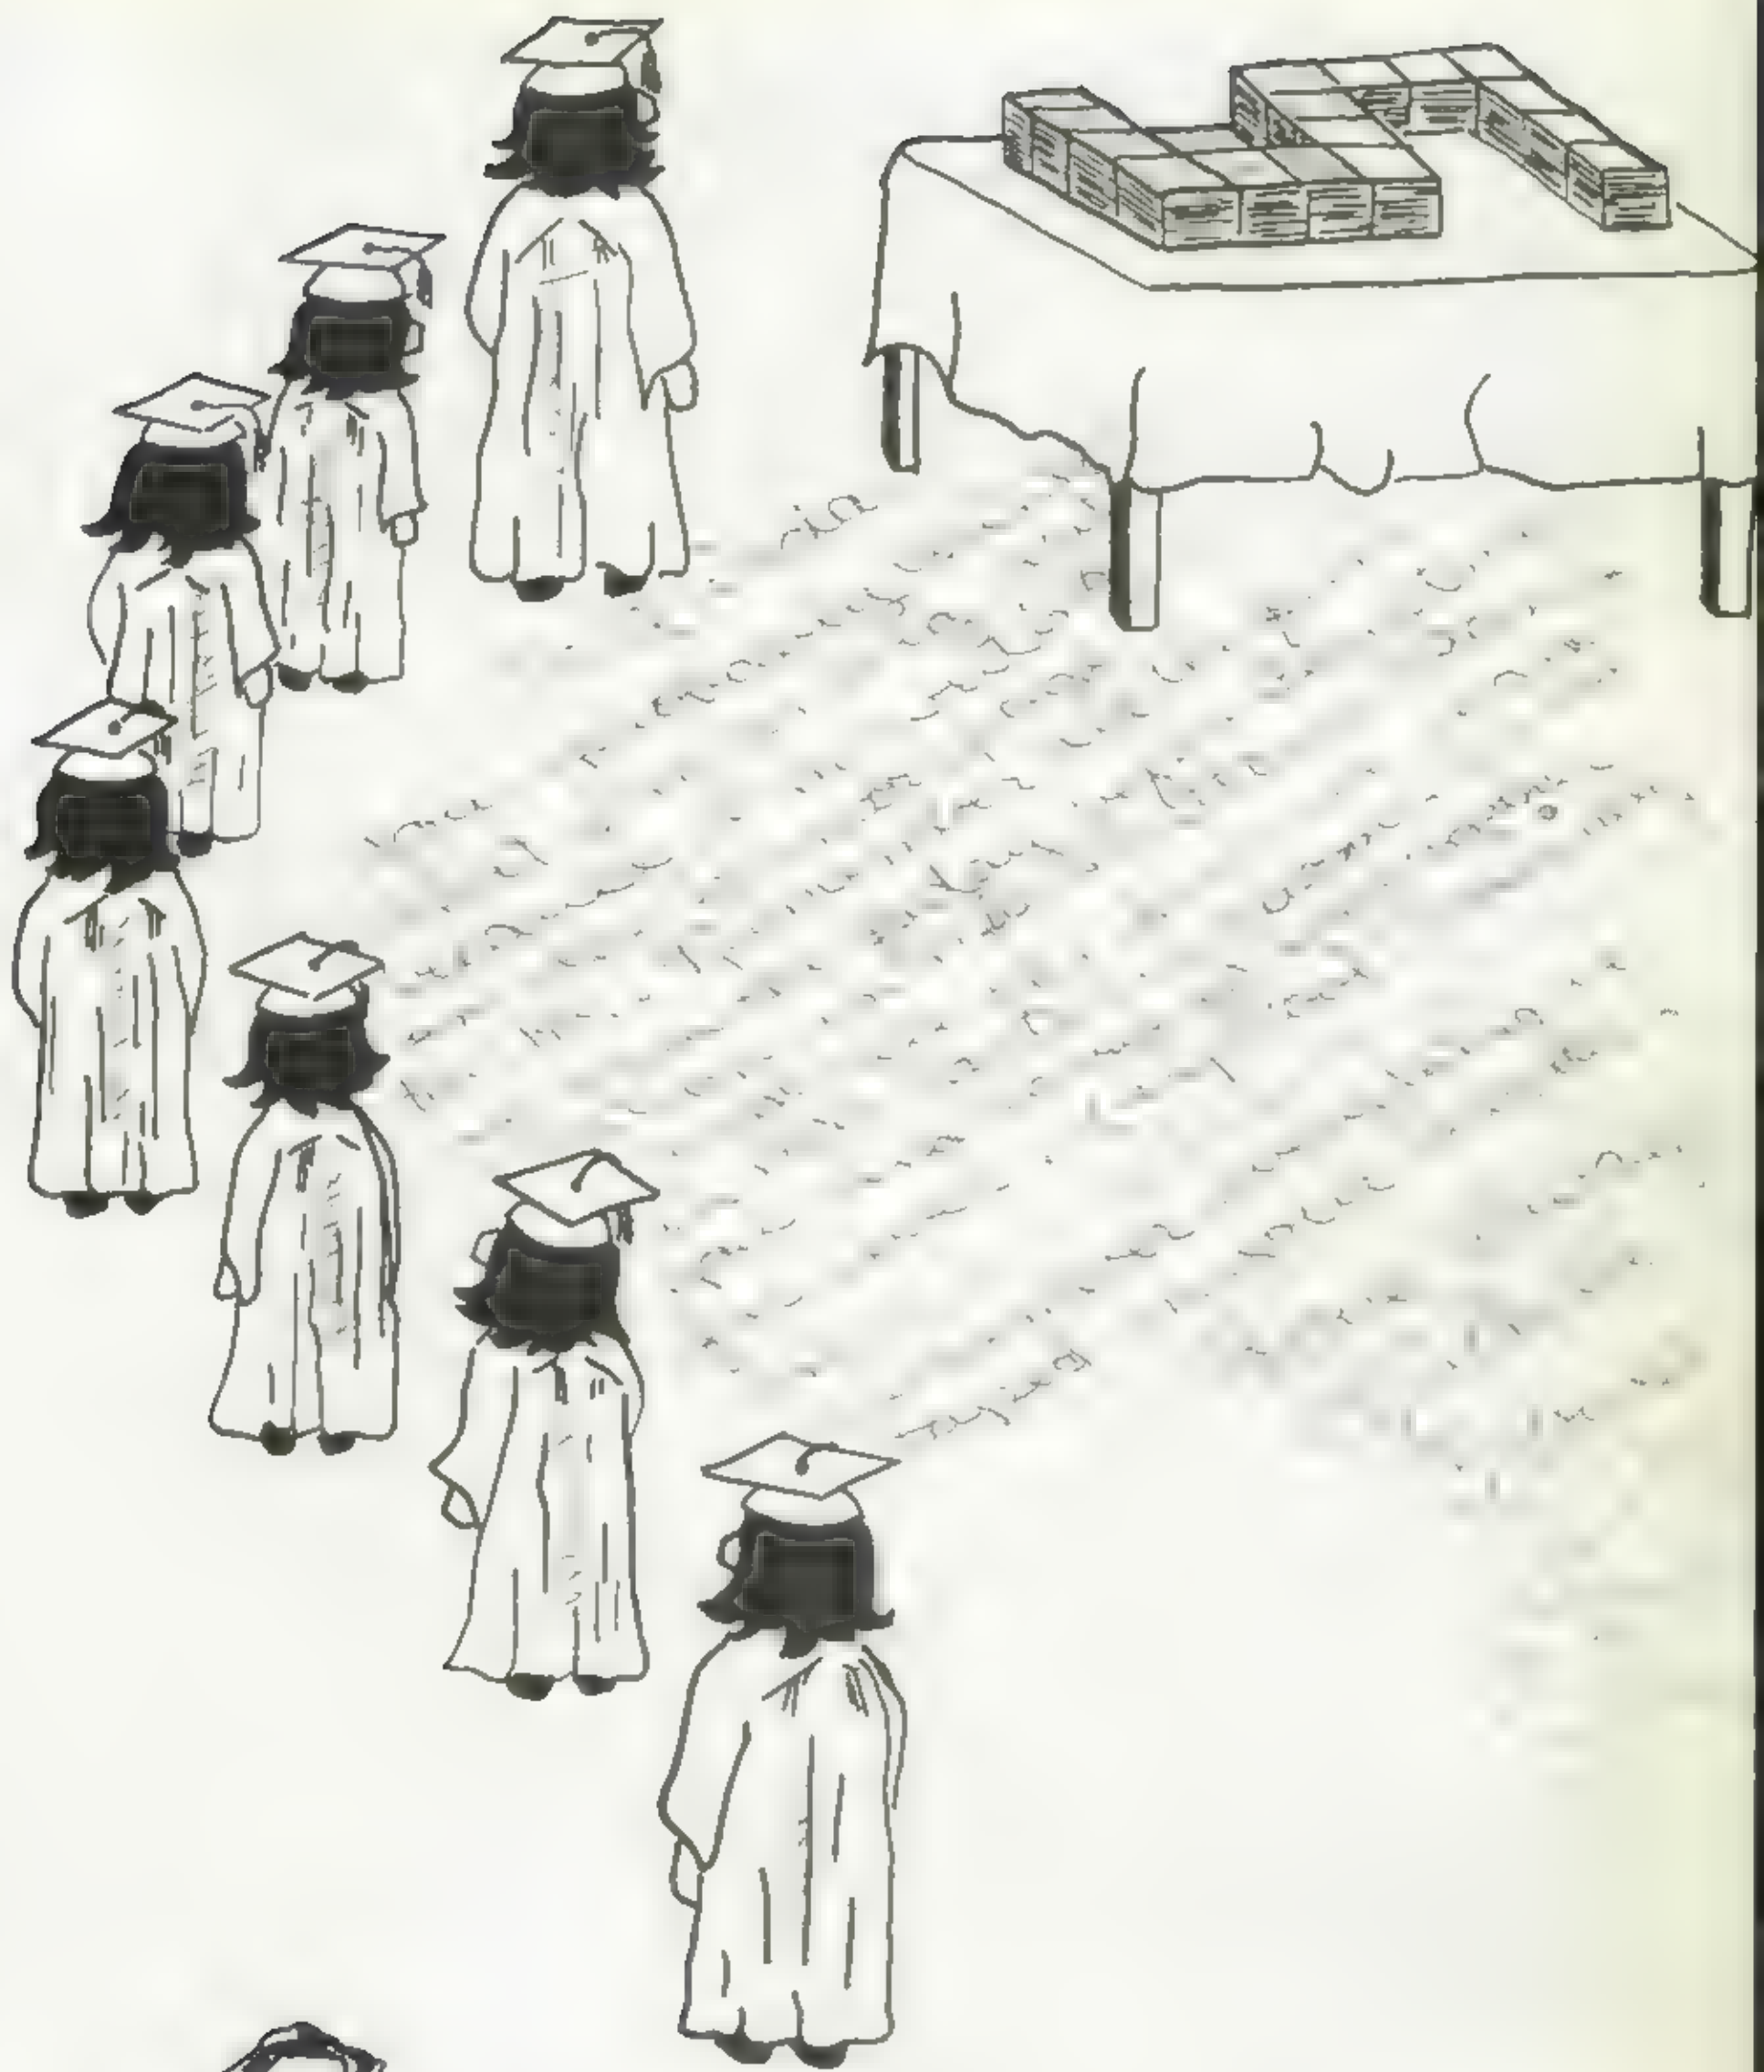

On December 17, 1969, escorted by two loyal Seneca supporters, Mr. Jerry Grenough of the Taylor Publishing Co. and Mr. Jack Smith, our favorite photographer, we journeyed to Morehead State University. Morehead was new to all of us and we enjoyed Dr. Lewis Barnes' introduction to his interesting alma mater which is literally situated on the side of a mountain.

Morehead's TV studio is most modern and this opportunity to learn how one of modern man's phenomenal inventions operates was a treat to all of us. We found that being a TV star is no simple matter. You must maintain certain positions, do things in the correct way at the right time, and, above all, you must know exactly what you are going to say and how long it will take you to get your story across. We had exactly 26½ minutes of a 30 minute program to fill; believe it or not, we finished on the dot. Call it "beginners' luck"; the producer, Mr. Higgins, Technical Director, Mr. Davis, and Dr. Barnes were satisfied with our performance. NO RETAKES! The Epic is scheduled to be lesson #31 in Dr. Barnes' New TV series. Watch for us — no admission charge!

Act I

Scene 1

Setting: Seneca Jr. High, September, 1964

The new members of the Class of '70 became acquainted with Seneca; schedules changed and the newly initiated seventh graders had to adjust to a new routine and a new phase of life. The new routine included core, chorus, art, P.E., Home Ec. or shop, science, math, and remedial reading. There were many extra-curricular activities preparing the young Redskins for senior high. To further education a Future Teachers of America was formed.

He didn't stay quite long

The Class of '70 makes its first appearance

Scene 2

Setting: Seneca Jr. High, September, 1965; the seventh graders advanced to the eighth grade

As they ascended the totem pole towards success many classmates highlighted their year with new activities. Many boys took part in Gray-Y football and basketball. Eight interested girls took part in the Gray-Y activities by becoming cheerleaders. A teen club was formed with Buddy Stone, Pres.; Bimbo Hampton and Marty Mulhns, Veeps; Ted Herman, Treas.; Lee Henderson, Secy.; and Joyce Spurlock and Louise Calvert, Sgts.-at-Arms. Looking ahead to their senior year they formed a Drama Club and presented many plays. Bobby Dick was president of the Student Council with Jan Mooney as his secretary.

With the close of the 1965-66 school year the Class of '70 lost many members to the newly developed Jeffersontown High School. To compensate this loss, students from Fern Creek High School transferred to Seneca.

Things are just sew-sew . . .

Stick to it, fellas!

Act II

The Freshman Cheerleaders SCENE 100

Scene 1

Setting: Seneca Sr. High, September, 1966.

The Freshman year was a transitional period for most. It was a time when old ties with the Jr. High were gradually being replaced with new ones with the Senior High. Doors to the past were closing, but new doors to the future were opening. For the first time the students came to a full realization of what the words on those little pink schedule cards meant. Being able to choose one's own classes gave a new feeling of freedom and independence.

Lending an air of stability to the class during a crucial period were the class officers. Bobby Dick led the class as President. He was assisted by the Vice President, Mike Sloan. Tiece Noblitt, Class Secretary, kept an account of all class business. Overseeing the financial status of the class was Joyce Spurlock as Treasurer. Order was kept at class meetings by the Sgts-at-Arms, Kathie Ellison and Marty Mullins. A shorts day was sponsored in an effort to start a fund for the class. To keep up with the rest of the school Bobby Dick and Sally McClellan represented the class on the Student Council Executive Board.

For the first time the students were given the opportunity to join in many extra-curricular activities. One major area was sports. Glenn Brucchieri and Joe Bill Henry were on the Varsity Football Team. Lorenzo Warfield, Dwight Williams, David Berman, Doug Stern and Dwayne Walker added their strength to the wrestling team. Danny Deskins, Ken Stevens, and John Edwards were members of the J.V. Cross Country. They were County Champs that year. Bill Bauer started his athletic career on the J.V. basketball team.

The girls were represented in sports, also. Obea Crittenden placed third in the 70-yard dash in the Mason Dixon games. The annual girls' football game was also played. The Sophomore girls beat the Freshman girls, but it didn't matter because there were three more years left to try for victory.

Helping the boys along in sports were Brenda Dorsey and Sally McClellan on the Junior Varsity cheerleading squad and Becky Payne, Pam Van Gilder, Becky Baker, Kathie Ellison, Pam Ransdel, Nancy Jones and Tiece Noblitt as Freshman Cheerleaders.

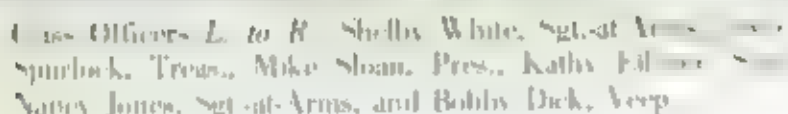

All these activities and organizations helped the Freshmen feel they were well on their way to being a real functioning part of Seneca.

At the time of the 1993 census, the population of the village was 1,000. The village is located in the northern part of the district, about 10 km from the district center. The village is situated on the left bank of the river, which is 100 m wide. The village is situated on the left bank of the river, which is 100 m wide. For example, to launch the class for a right ball set was in:

As sophomores, membership in many organizations became available. Karen Bolt, Rickie Coomer, Rita Lee, Linda Lukat, Dixie Smith, Laura Stephens, Candie Turner and Tom Welch were accepted onto the Arrow staff. The Sentinel staff had the aid of Alana Clark, Vickie Dunn, Carolyn Halsell and Carol Meyer. Many sophomores were invited to join the Beta Club. Rick Stephan was on the staff of the school magazine, the Aurora, sponsored by the Beta Club.

Brenda Horsey and Joyce Spurlock participated in the "Little 500." Football
 Horsey, our Princess was Joyce Lindsay and Tracy Schmitt was in the court.
 Karen McAfee was Basketball. Horsey, our Princess. The Sophomore Class was represented in the 1968 calendar. It was formed by the faces of Joyce Lindsay, the class representative, Nancy Jones and Kim Ruebenstahl.

Princess Karen McAlister with escort Tom Welsh, being crowned by Bill Bauer and Finky Hayes

Sophomore representatives helped Seneca win the title president-elect of the KASC. Tom Welsh and Barbara Smith, serving on the Executive Board, along with Bobby Dick gave an indication of what would happen in the future. The Student Council started the "Redskin of the Week" and Tom Welsh was selected.

The MC JROTC was added to Seneca's curriculum that year and many boys enlisted in the program. Bruce Buch, Gary Lindenberg and Candi Turner represented the class on Seneca's Math Team. Brenda Dorsey, Nancy Jones, Karen McAlister, Tiece Noblitt, Kitti Ruebenstahl and Susan Spauld represented the J.V. Football and Basketball teams, with many promising sophomores on to victory.

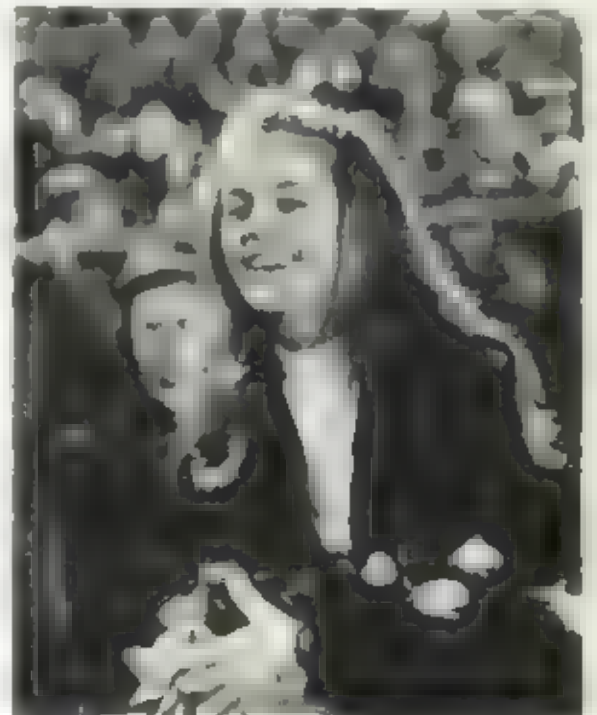

The more talented members of the class entertained the crowds at games. Becky Payne and Kathy Smith twirled their way onto the field. Kathy Crain, Ohea Crittenden, Becky Goides, Valerie Hines, Sally Muckler, Helaine Mueller, Joan Plymale, Debbie Radin, Renee Rich, Becky Rose, Patsy Shannon, Candi Turner and Holly Uley marched to the beat of the drum as Drill Corps members. Providing music during these activities were the Seneca Band and Pop Band which included Sol Baer, Bob Lowgill, Bobby Dick and Howard Klein. The Orchestra members were able to play at school functions such as the Senior Play and Christmas Concert, at which many class members raised their voices to the tunes of the season.

Voicing their opinions were Becky Baker and Laura Stephens as members of Youth Speaks. Keeping in the stride of things, membership in old organizations was continued and membership in many new ones such as the Math Club and Key Club was begun.

The major contributions to sports were in the areas of track (Jackie Bell, Bill Bauer, Danny Deskins, Byron Howell, Dennis McClain, Bill Simpson, Shelby White), cross country (John Edwards, Byron Howell, Gary Lindenberg, Ken Stevens, mgr.), golf (Doug DeGaris, Eddie Kahn), swimming (Bobby Dick, Allan Farris, Cassie Henderson, Kitti Ruebenstahl, Grant Stapleton, Robin Harris, mgr.), and Bill Bauer received the Best Back award for his J.V. Football performance.

Senior

Setting: Seneca Senior High August 1968

As the wheel of time turned to August 1968, the Class of 1970 entered their junior year. Many class members who had been followers now became leaders. A new face among the Junior Class Officers was Andy Strickland, who was elected President. Two other new faces were Gary Lindenberg as Vice President and Sharon Vasser, Secretary. Joyce Spurlock successfully continued her job as Class Treasurer. Last but not least, Sol Baer and Paul Edwards were the Sgts.-at-Arms. These officers led the class in presiding the most successful Basketball Homecoming ever. Two class members moved to higher positions on the Student Council. Barbara Smith was elected Secretary and Tom Welsh was elected Treasurer.

The ring assembly is an important part of the junior year. It symbolizes all past achievements and all future ambitions.

The class of 1970 made up an important part of many organizations that performed great services for Seneca. Interested students formed a link between the community and the school through the Public Relations Club. New members, Kitty Bryant, Kathy Straney, Ken Stevens, and Jim Amelang fulfilled demanding jobs on the Aurora Staff. Janet Aydt, Jean Becker, Don Johnson, Ann Masler, Debbie Nall, Barbara Smith, and Mark Witzer helped the Sentinel meet its monthly deadline. Peggy Koerner, Richie Richardson, and Sarah Woodson worked together with the rest of the Arrow Staff to publish another superb yearbook.

Majorettes L. to R. Claudia Cruse, Pam Van Gilder, and Cathy Parker.

The Junior Class was well represented on the Varsity Basketball Team by Bul Bauer, Bill Simpson, Anders Fogt, and Finley Hayes.

Kathy Ellison, Kathy Cecil and Nancy Noyes.

Many class members were interested in more academic areas. Jim Amelang made a fine showing for Seneca and the Junior class on the High-Q team. Bruce Buch, John Edwards, and Candi Turner represented the class on the Math Team. Ellen Bailey, Pam Bartolotti, Kitty Bryant, Linda Lukat, Bill Luttrell, Diane Meurer, Candi Turner, Cec'ye, and Sylvia Whitehouse made up a major part of the Math Club.

Two new clubs were made official at Seneca during the Junior year. The Future Business Leaders of America was formed and Debbie Lawrence was the club's reporter. Of the Goud News Club, Pam Blankenship and Audrey Wilhelm were members. Sherry Farah was President of the F.H.A., Pam Nathan was Vice, and Paula Aydt was Treas.

Three Junior girls, Claudia Cruse, Cathy Parker and Pam Van Gilder, highlighted the band performances as majorettes.

The football season was a success. Valerie Hines was chosen as Homecoming Queen and the team went on to be State Runner-up. Jayne Lindsay reigned as Basketball Homecoming Queen.

Scott Carter adds the magic touch.

The Junior Class also sponsored another very successful talent show. Ken Stevens and Steve Pursely spent an imaginative evening emceeing the show. Many class members participated including Scott Carter, the magician, and Glenn Bruechert and Mark Edwards in a duet. Junior girls sold peanuts during intermission. Several packages contained surprises.

Act III

Scene 1

Setting: Seneca Senior High School, August, 1969

The Senior year is expected to be the best and the most fulfilling of all the school years. The Class of 1970 lived up to this expectation. The senior girls' football team, armed with determination and skill, went into their game with the junior girls and came out the victors.

The Seniors were very successful in the Calendar Contest as 10 senior girls were selected to be on the calendar.

Olivia Crittenden and Kitti Ruebenstahl were in the queen's court for Football Homecoming.

The most spectacular event of the year besides graduation was the Senior Play, "Hello Dolly." It was the most difficult and the most successful play Mr. Stickler and any Senior class has ever presented. Jackie Ponder filled the role of Dolly. Drew Sarniak played opposite her as Horace Vandergelder.

Kitti Ruebenstahl and Olivia Crittenden were on the Homecoming Queen's court. They are escorted by Dennis McManis and Richard Davis.

Who's top gun, who?

Becky Baker and Karen Wetherby primp for the Calendar Contest.

With all that going for them on the bench, the senior girls just couldn't lose the game.

David Scott, Eric Kiser, Sherman Cornell, and Jeff Nichols made up the lighting crew for the Senior Play

Candi Turner and the stuffed whale!!!

Pam Blankenship, John Petry, Gordon Smith, Sally McClellan, Glenn Brucchieri, Linda Levin, and Rick Stephan also had major roles.

Jayne Lindsay was crowned queen of the 1970 Basketball Homecoming. She was crowned by team captain, Bill Bauer.

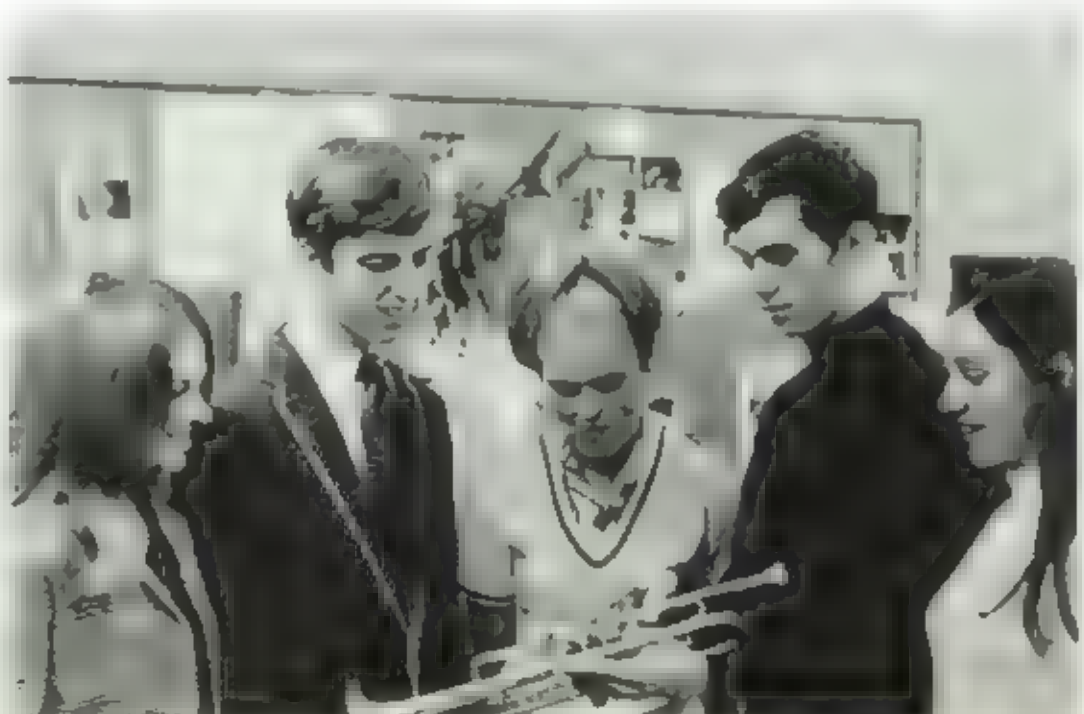

Senior boys made up an important part of sports. Bill Bauer was captain of the football team and some of his teammates were Joe Bill Henry, Mack Stallard, Mike Standard, and Andy Strickland. Bill Bauer was also captain of the basketball team. Anders Fogt, and Finley Hayes also played in starting positions on the varsity team.

On the sidelines cheering the teams on were Varsity Cheerleaders, Brenda Dorsey, Nancy Jones, Jayne Lindsay, Kitti Ruebenstahl, and Joyce Sparlock.

The Spring, following tradition, was an especially busy time for Seniors. They entertained themselves on Senior Activity night, May 15. Moving on to their goal, the seniors rode bicycles to school on Bicycle Day, May 18. Many seniors received honors and scholarships to further their education on Awards Night, May 19.

The Prom, the event seniors look forward to all through high school, was held at Catherine Spalding on May 22. Breakfast followed on the Belle of Louisville. The end was in sight as the seniors and their families attended Baccalaureate services on May 24. Commencement exercises were held on May 27 at 8:00 p.m. in Freedom Hall. Strange that it was held in a place called Freedom Hall. Freedom is what most seniors feel they have achieved when it is all over with. Freedom to go after life and to live it as they see fit. A new beginning.

Mr. and Miss Seneca

Barbara Smith and Tom Welsh take care of the details

A striking pair - Leadership and Laughter

To reach a goal takes determination and many hours of hard work. Barbara Smith and Tom Welsh have devoted four years of service to the Student Council. First elected by their homerooms in ninth grade, they served as representatives. The next year they were chosen to represent the sophomore class on the Executive Board. In the seventh grade, Tom secured the office of Treasurer and Barbara successfully sought the office of Secretary. In their senior year they reached the final goal. With Tom as President and Barbara as Vice-President, the Student Council was under one of the most dynamic and capable leaderships it has ever known.

Through continual contact with the other organizations Tom has done much to promote communication and unity with the Student Council. He was able to hear others' opinions and voice his own. By being basketball manager in the ninth grade and on the Junior Varsity football team in the tenth grade, he was well-prepared to help with the sports section of the ARROW. In his senior year he was named Sports Editor. In loyalty to his school, he joined the Pep Club in the tenth through twelfth grades. As a result of his hard work on the ARROW, he was inducted into the Quill and Scroll. His interests were also academically inclined. He was a member of the Junior French Club in the ninth and tenth grades.

In addition to her responsibilities to the Student Council, Barbara was also a member of the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Executive Boards while a member of the Sentinel staff on which she was Features Editor in her Senior year. Loyal in all facets of school life, Barbara became a member of the Pep Club in the tenth through twelfth grades. She was also a four year member of the Junior Classical League and because she plans to become a teacher joined the Future Teachers of America during her tenth through twelfth years to gain knowledge that might help her to prepare for the future.

President Tom Welsh speaks to the convention. The theme of his speech was "A Stronger America Through A Stronger Youth"

On November 15, 1969, Seneca was the proud host of the Twenty-Third Annual Convention of the Kentucky Association of Student Councils. Led by President Tom Welsh, the theme of the convention and Tom's speech was "A Stronger America Through A Stronger Youth."

The aims of the convention were two-fold; to acquaint the attending members of occurrences in both the state and national student councils, and to elect the state officers for 1970. The president school for 1970 is Bryan Station High School in Lexington, Kentucky.

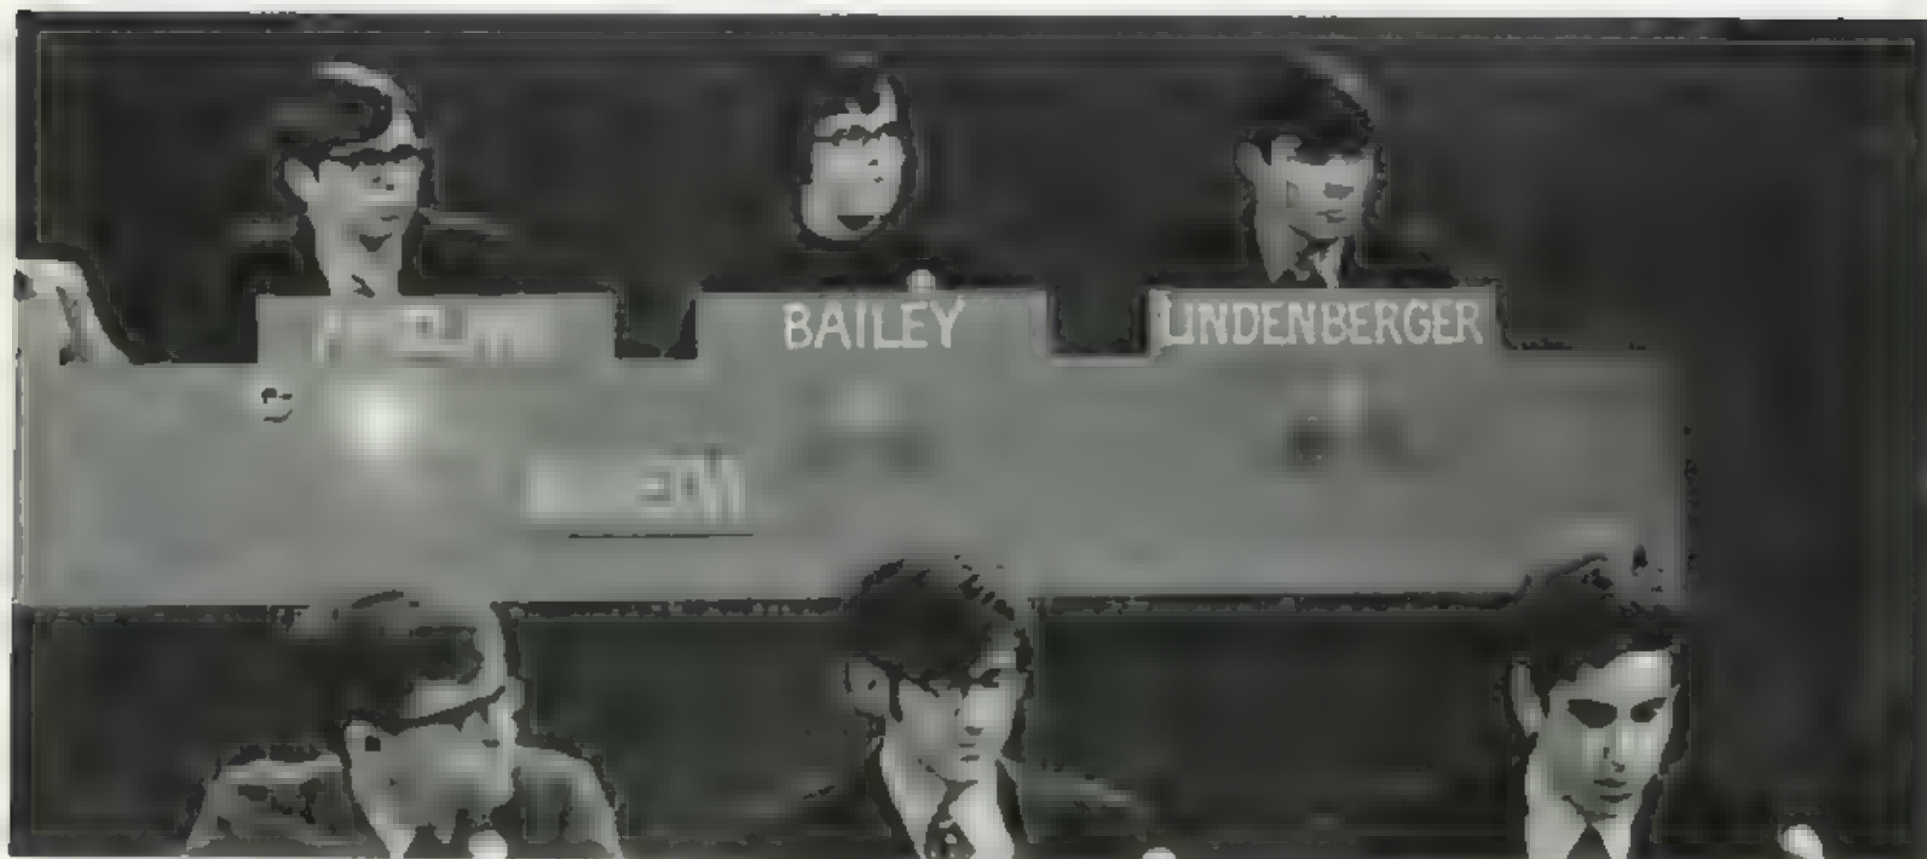

Highlights of the morning session were an address by Dr. Robert Mills of Georgetown College and reports on the national conference and the Kentucky workshop. The afternoon session, however, was the culmination of a year of hard work. Officers for the next year were elected and their installation was held.

This was Seneca's first year as the president and host school and they did a fine job on all the preparations. Tom Welsh, the entire Student Council, and Mrs. McQuillen and Miss Richardson are to be thanked and congratulated for their great work on such an undertaking.

Miss Richardson, Mrs. McQuillen, and another school's advisor look on with a smile

Vying for Number One . . .

Alternate Rick Stephan and host Dick Morandt discuss Seneca's many activities and long standing traditions.

As Undefeated Champion . . .

"Brawn and beauty do not a school make."

Who at Seneca could have made such a true statement? Any number of people could have uttered this profound quote, including Mr. Gary Parker, the person who coached the Seneca High-Q team to victories over Waggener, Presentation, and Southern. Although he did not say it, it is quite possible that he could have. In its second year at WAVE-TV, High Q has proved that contests of intelligence and quick recall can be just as exciting as sports and beauty contests.

Leading the team to victory was Captain Jim Amelang, who was voted Most Intelligent in the Senior Class. His fellow team members were Ellen Bailey, also voted Most Intelligent, Gary Lindemberger, who was voted Most Likely to Succeed, and Alan Plattus, who is one of the leading members of the Class of 1971. The alternate was Rick Stephan, who is one of the most successful members of the Senior Class. It was these students of high caliber whose quick wit and intelligence was recognized immediately by all who saw them.

In the spring this group will go into the Championship Games against all other undefeated teams. With their ability and any luck at all, Seneca has a chance to attain the championship for 1970

As Usual!!!

Yuletide Choral Program

Frank Robinson delighted the audience with his solo

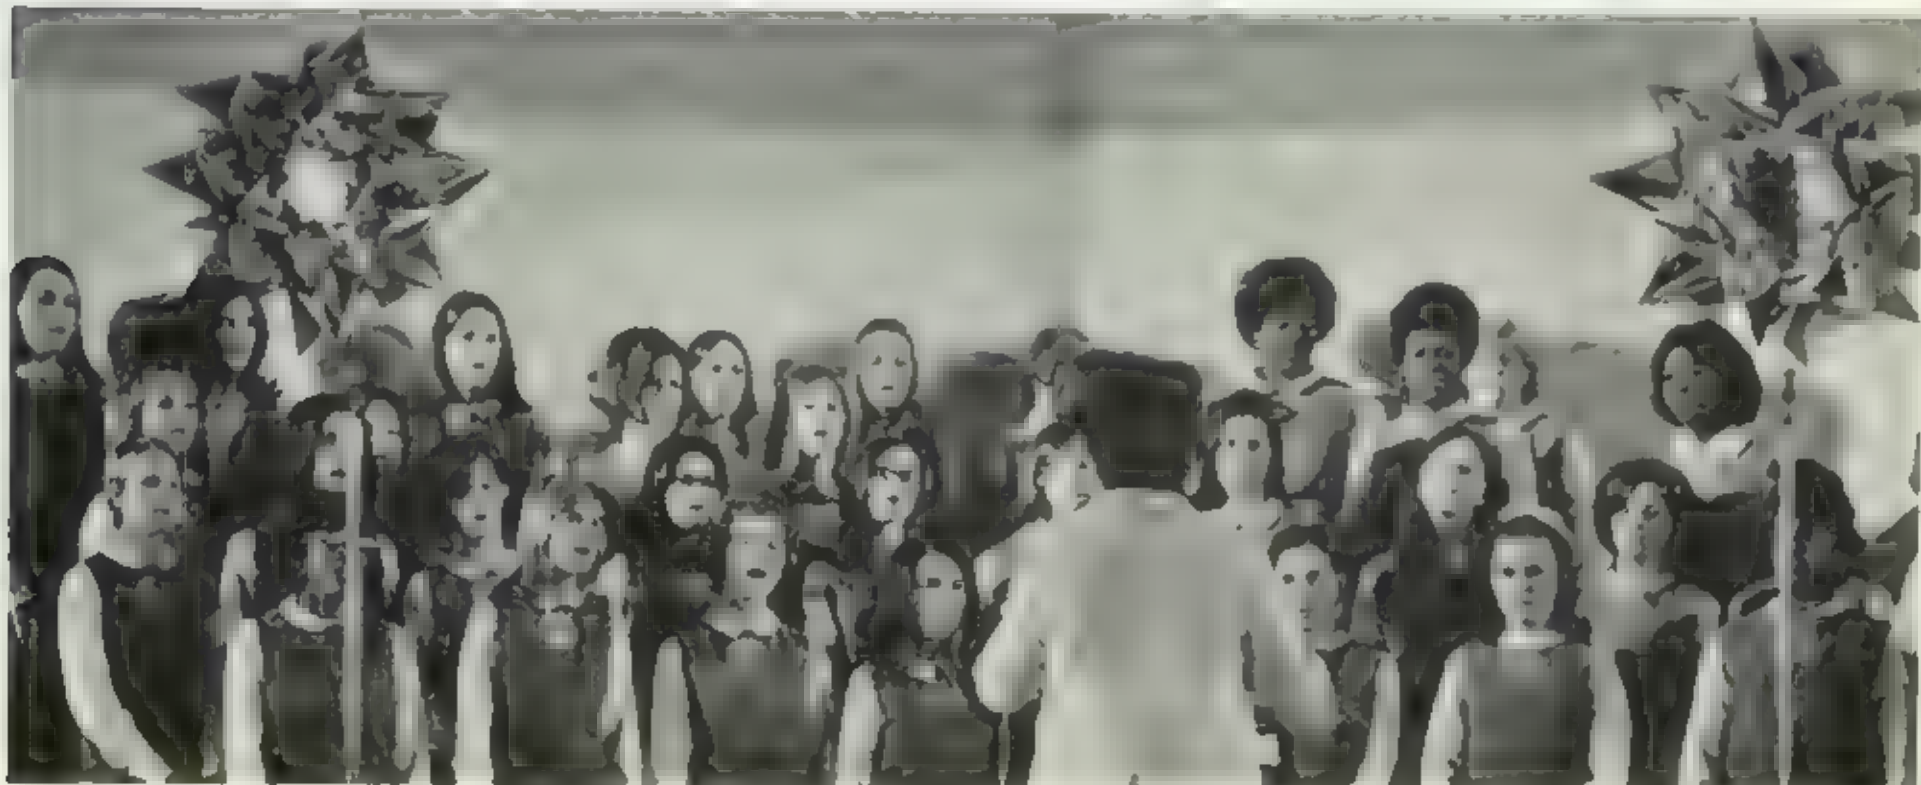

Smiling faces added to the enjoyment of the occasion

Seneca students simmered, bubbled and finally reached a boiling point as the holiday vacation approached. The feeling of excitement reached a peak and was finally released only by the exuberant applause for the annual Christmas Program. The gym was buzzing with electricity as the students awaited the performance of the Band and Choral Departments.

Silence echoed in the gym, and the band, directed by Mr. Wich, began to play. The applause subsided to a medium, then Miss Stephens instructed the choral participants to enter. The melodious music and inspiring Christmas Carols performed by these two departments, gave the audience an experience not easily forgotten. The true spirit of Christmas was best expressed in the words and music of Christmas Carols. The applause subsided, the gym emptied, but many students left, feeling an inner warmth.

Miss Stephens instructs the choral members in their numbers.

"All together now, on the count of three, one two three"

Homecoming

What is a Basketball Homecoming? It is a dreary February night outside, but in the Seneca gym all is warm and alive with bright lights, loud noises, and a rainbow of colors. Basketball Homecoming is a night when Jayne Lindsay and Debbie Korfhage wait in suspense and with expectation, and let a delighted sigh escape them as they are crowned Queen and Princess. Basketball Homecoming is a night when the Seneca fans jump to their feet as the horn buzzes and once again the Fairdale Bulldogs have fallen prey to the mighty Red-skins. Basketball Homecoming is a night when the Seneca gym is completely made over — this time transformed into a land of fantasy and make-believe with floats, William Tell and Snow White. Basketball Homecoming is a night when that same gym looks like a ship in a tempest, rocking back and forth with the gyrating beat of the spectacular "Midwest Spectacular." Basketball Homecoming is a night when everyone enters the doors with hope and excitement bursting over within them, and they leave with a feeling of contentment. It is a night of joy, laughter, victory, glamour, cheers, and tears. But it is more. As Snoopy would say, Basketball Homecoming is a night of happiness.

A Night to Remember!!

These magnificent football players can only be the fabulous Senior Girls, following their 20-7 triumph over the Juniors.

Lovely Kathy Cram scrambles for a Senior first down.

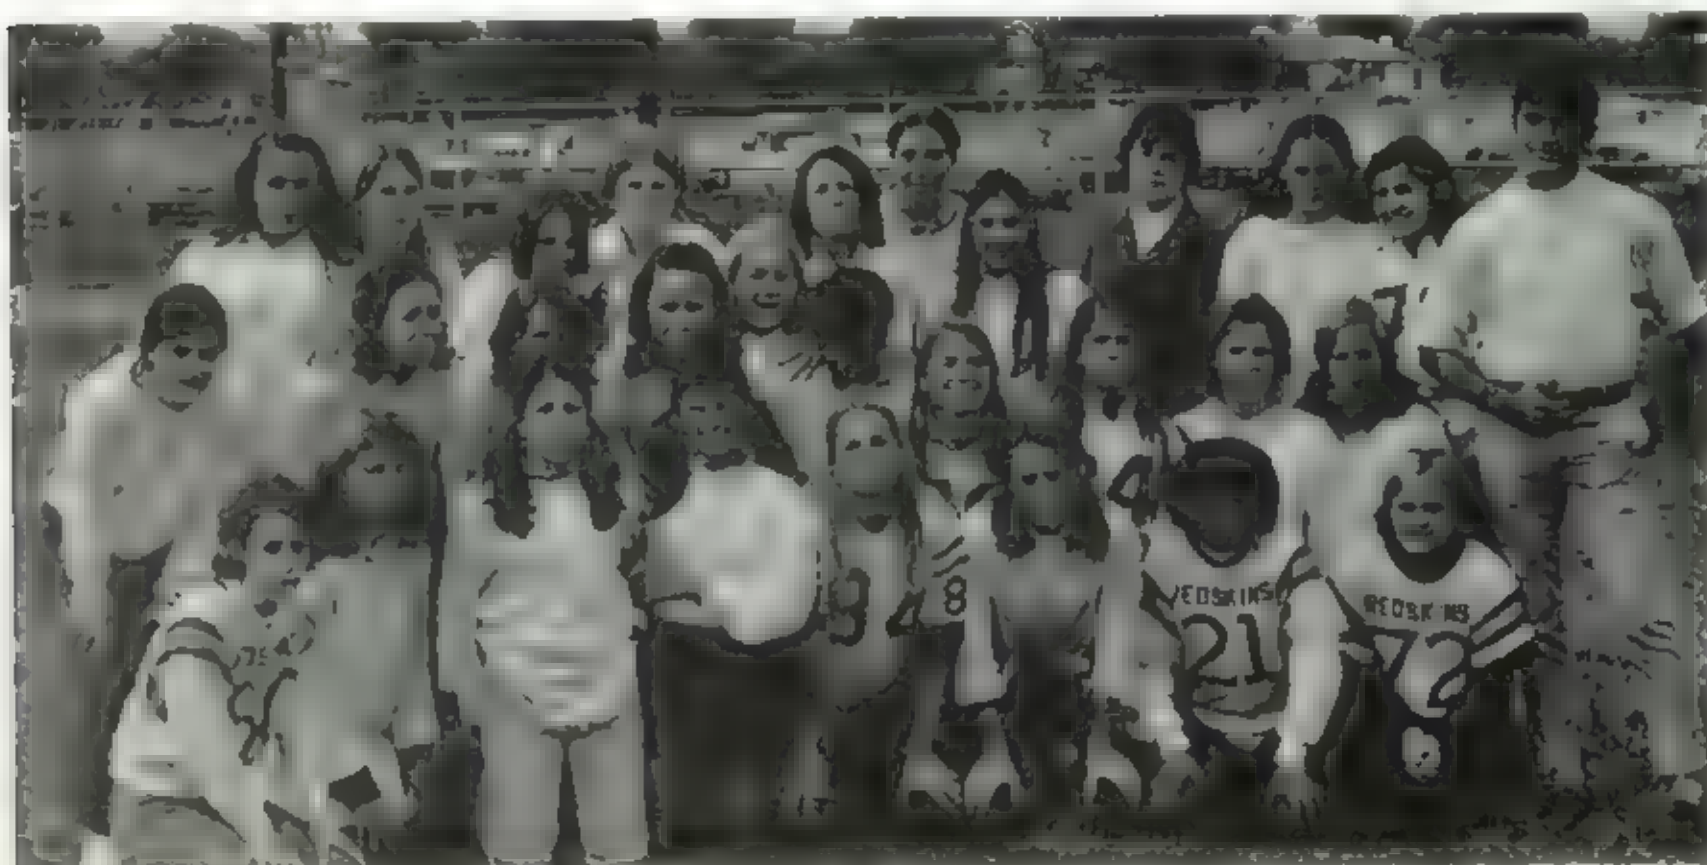

Footballs soar through the crisp
November afternoon -
And bodies follow them, landing in heaps upon the muddy ground.
Kathy Cram flings the ball and herself
over the goal line, once . . . twice
And Ann Bailey gracefully trots under the Goal posts, and the Seniors lead with three touchdowns!
But in a final burst of energy, Patty Hines
clears the field for a Junior touchdown.
And Julie Thompson makes a gallant effort. She makes the touchdown, but the ball is called back!
Yes, the day is done, the battle o'er
And, below, thus reads the score:

20

These are the Junior Girls who heroically fought the Senior Girls but went down in defeat.

An aura of excitement and fright surrounds each girl as she waits off stage for her number to be called. Whispers of "Good Luck!" follow her as she crosses the floor, and she takes one final deep breath before she turns to face the crowd in the gymnasium. Pausing under the rose trellis, (counting 1,2,3 as Miss Chaudoin directed) she wonders to herself, "Does my hair look all right? Is my dress hanging right?" Walking down the white-covered steps, she appears calm and smiles brightly at the audience, but underneath her light pastel gown her knees are shaking, her stomach is tied in knots, and her heart is in her throat. Yet when she returns backstage a feeling even worse than before overtakes her, and a brief prayer escapes each girl's lips: "Please let it be me!" And finally, after unbearable moments of suspense, master of ceremonies Tom Welsh calls out the thirteen numbers — those mystical, magical numbers which transport thirteen girls from a cherished dream to a more fantastic reality — that of being chosen a member of the 1970 JCL Calendar.

There were thirty-four girls — all of them charming, poised and beautiful — but there are only twelve months in a year and only one cover so only thirteen girls could be chosen. The judges selected them for their poise and stature; for their freshness and vitality; and for their beauty and charm. Is it any wonder that they chose Miss Barbara Kilness as Cover Girl? Her breathtaking loveliness and youthful charm captivated them, just as each of the girls overwhelmed the appreciative audience.

It is now our pleasure to present to you the "Seneca Zodiac of Beauties for 1970."

The Cover Girl for the 1970 JCL Calendar is . . . MISS BARBARA KILNESS

These twenty-one lovely young ladies were the runner-ups in the JCL Calendar Contest. Their beaming smiles won the hearts of the audience.

The Group

October 10, 1969 — the sounds of eager voices ring through the crisp autumn night. A rainbow of colors — red and gold most prominent — floods the stadium. Excited students and anxious parents fill the stands and line the fence. The spicy odor of fresh, fragrant mums penetrates the air. The chords of "Seneca Forever" can be heard for miles. A football soars through the sky; a tackle is made; a heap of entangled bodies lies on the field. Spirited onlookers — their breaths held — jump to their feet in suspense. The referee raises his hands aloft, and cheers of joy resound through the crowd. It's a touchdown! The game ends, Seneca defeating Waggener 26-6.

It's HOMECOMING 1969!

For weeks the Drill Corps, the Majorettes and the Band have practiced to make this evening a night to remember. Their efforts are well-rewarded; the half-time show is spectacular. Eight lovely girls, the candidates for queen and princess, wait silently on the field for that exciting announcement. It is made, and Queen Julie Kilness and Princess Kerry Quillen will reign at the dance to follow.

The gym looks marvelous — white satin drapes the walls, flowers pour from the ceiling. The groovy beat of the Wulff Brothers vibrates through the room. Students 'jerk' and 'boogaloo' across the floor, laughing and smiling in delight. The Homecoming Court is again presented to the crowd, and the girls are given charms to help them remember this great occasion — as if it could be forgotten. Couples begin to drift out the doors — the time is late and HOMECOMING 1969 has come to an end.

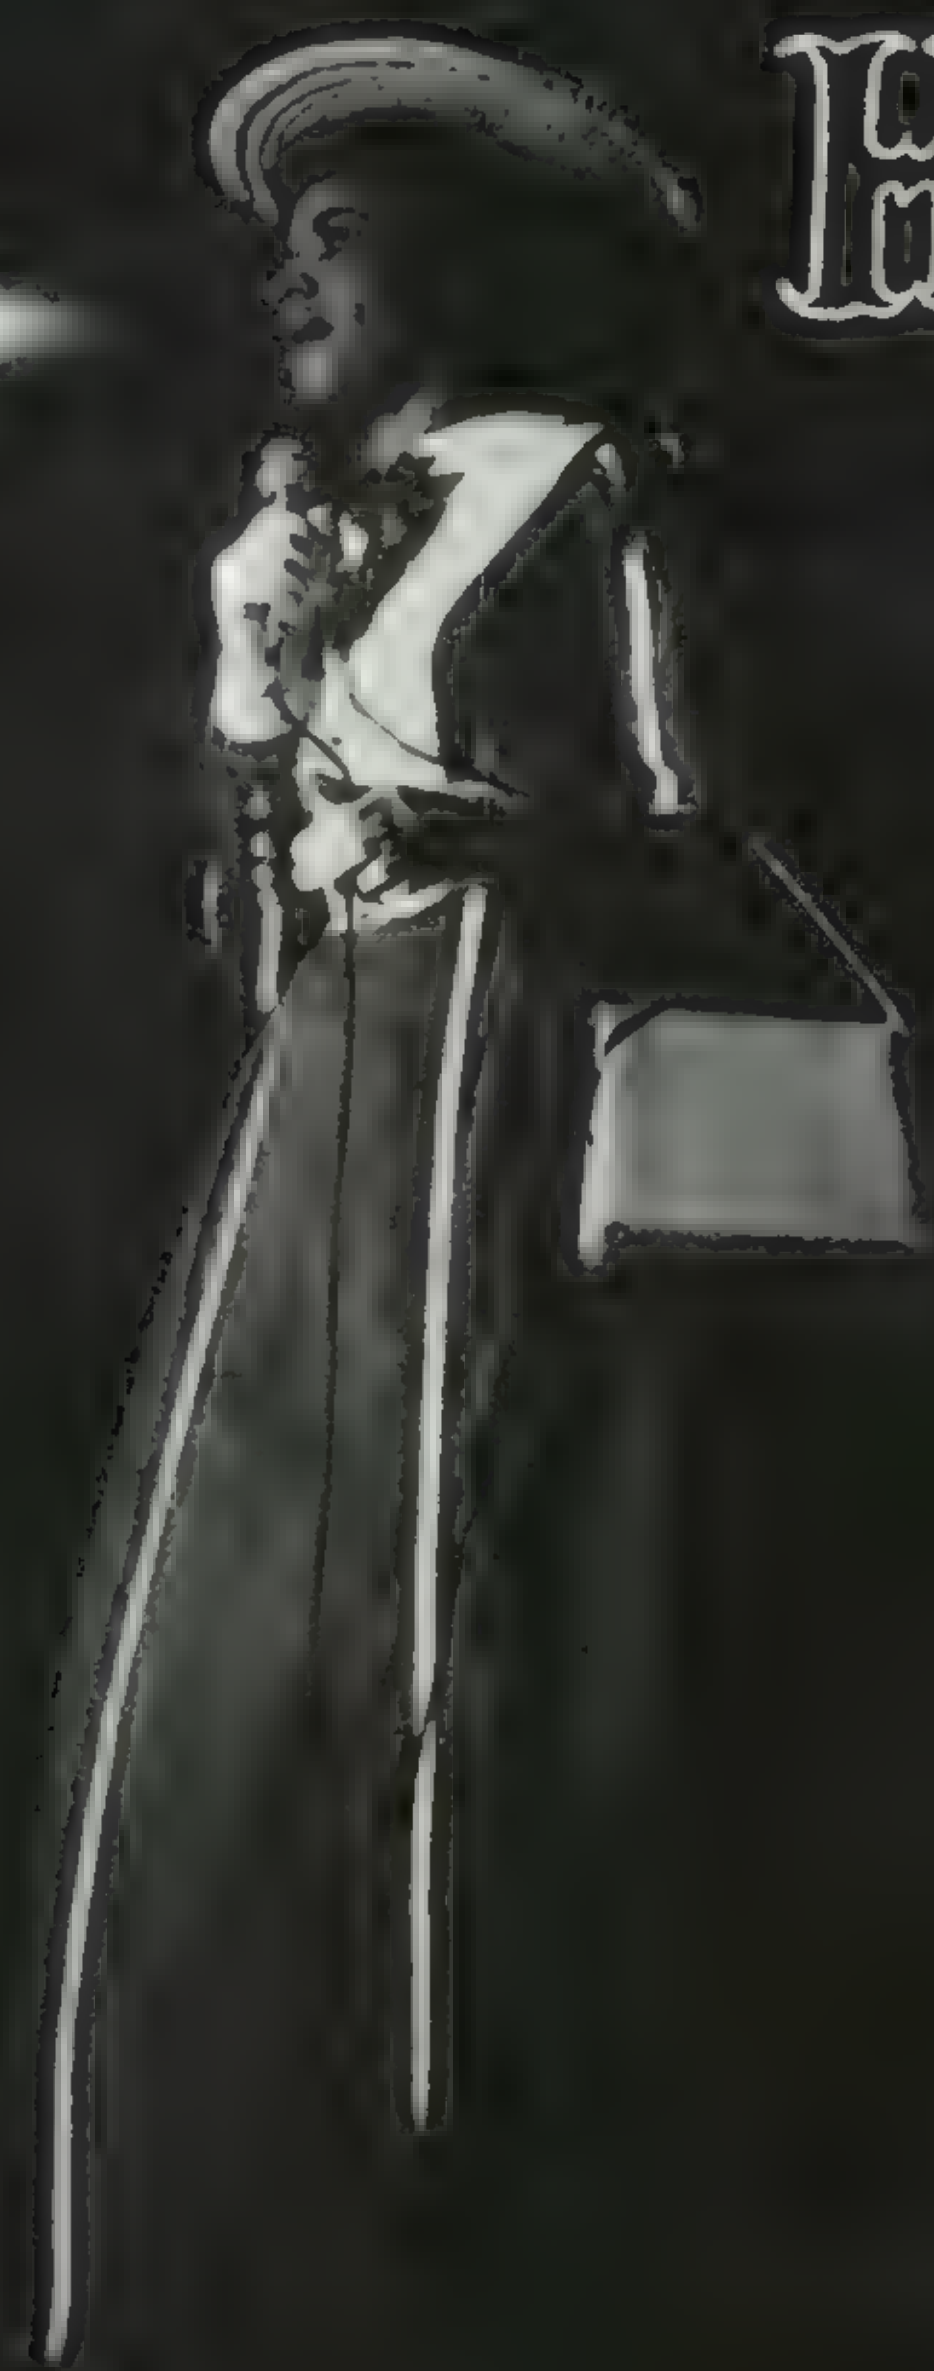

But back on the field, amid all the confetti and empty cups, in the dark and silent night, a small body squats cross-legged on the ground. Head bowed and eyes closed, a tiny tear of happiness rolls down a cheek. Lonesome Polecat smiles broadly to himself and begins to sing softly:

"Seneca forever, loyal and true.
Our hearts will never
Change our love for you.
Seneca forever, be brave, be bold.
Fight for our colors
Of red and gold."

HOMECOMING 1969 has reached an end, but the 'Spirit of Seneca' will live forever.

WESTLEY UNSSELL

Remember the days of Schenck's two back-to-back Kentucky Basketball Championships in 1963 and 1964? Meet Westley Unsell, center, who led the Redskins then. Later, he was All-American for the University of Louisville and now you can watch him play the same excellent brand of Ball with the Baltimore Bullets. Westley was named "Rookie of the Year" for 1963-64 as well as the National Basketball Association's "Most Valuable Player." Being named high school player of the decade rounded off Westley's list of credits for the 60s.

PETER D. CONN

Introducing Peter Conn of the Class of 1964, a player whose career we have followed with interest. Peter is today a full-time Managing Editor of The Jefferson Reporter. To those interested in government, he is better known as one of the youngest, most dynamic and ambitious Democrats in the State Representatives in the 19th Kentucky Legislature. It was Mr. Conn who introduced House Resolution 17 into the Legislature on January 20, 1970. This resolution provides for adoption of legislation to amend the constitution and to provide public aid in the atmosphere of a day that is most pertinent to the public's future welfare.

PLEASURE RIDGE PARK 6

The first game of the 1969 football term drew near and all were in wonder about the capabilities of the Seneca squad. It appeared that the season's toll would be heavy with practically all new starters and Coach Al Zampino breaking the ice of his new assignment as head coach. The Redskins, however, left no uneducated fan after their devastating demonstration of power with which they opened the season. The Seneca tally of 33 points was an outstanding representation of the entire roster. Sophomore sensations Doug Beckham and Gary Brewer both made the scorebook with six point touchdowns as did Junior Buddy Key on a two point conversion and Senior Bill Bauer on an extra point kick. But it was John Henry Johnson our senior halfback who stole the show that night. Henry, as he is known, not only led the team in scoring 3 touchdowns but also in rushing, with 151 yards in 12 carries.

The entire team was commended, as they left P.R.P. with a bitter taste of defeat.

SENECA 20

SOUTHERN 13

The mighty Red found itself off to a slow start this following week against Southern. The half time score was 13-0 as Southern was in hopes of upsetting Seneca for the first time in eight years. The Redskins came back from the locker room to play football!

On the first play from scrimmage, Henry Johnson cut through the Southern line and broke a number of tackles as he scampered 42 yards for a touchdown. The extra point by Bauer made the score 13-7. In the same quarter Johnson repeated the feat this time for 53 yards and another six points. The extra point by David Mayer was good.

All were together as the big defense held Southern scoreless and regained the ball for the offensive drive. The blocking was perfect as Bill Bauer drove one yard to score the winning touchdown. Determined faith had saved the Redskins.

WESTPORT 0

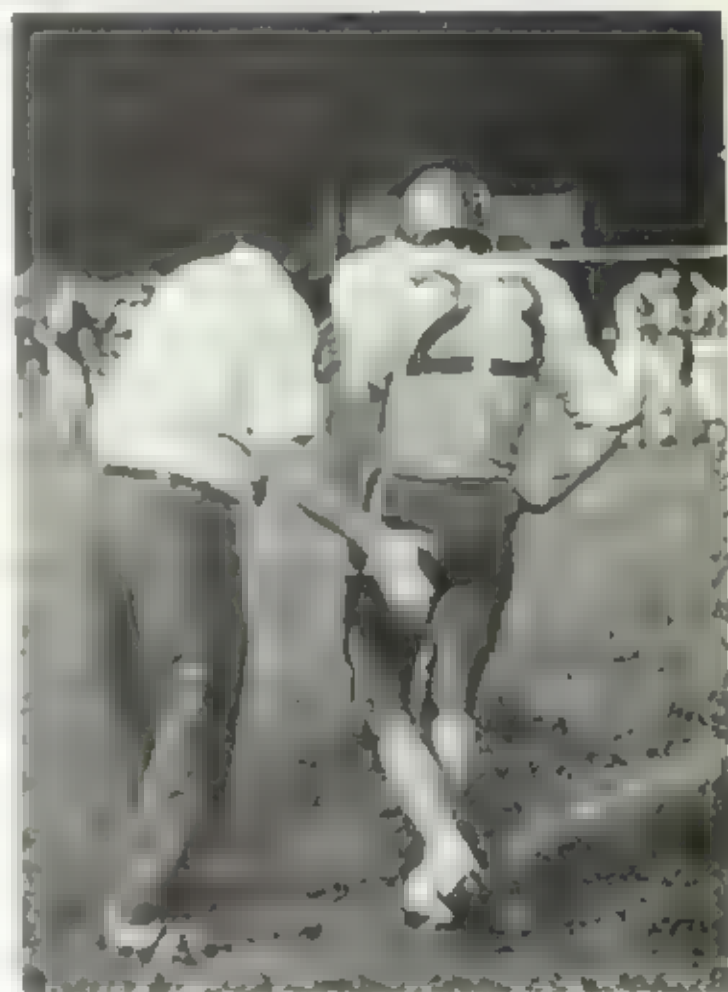

Neither team was able to score until late in the first quarter when Johnson leaped across the goal line from one yard out. The key to this play was a 47 yard bomb from quarterback Bill Bauer to Danny Karem. Johnson also scored from the six yard line after setting himself up with a 25 yard run. Bauer ended the scoring with an end sweep which gained four yards and another T D for Seneca.

Seneca was undefeated and considered to be a highly regarded threat to the number one ranked county team. Also undefeated, the Butler Bears went into the game favored by the polls to be victorious. Seneca's star halfback, Henry Johnson, was unable to find daylight and was held to just 11 yards running. Under these circumstances a new hero arose. Sophomore Doug Beckham took up where Johnson left off. After breaking on a 34 yard scamper to the Butler one, he plunged over for the Redskins first touchdown. Beckham was also the leading Redskin rusher as he churned 73 yards in 7 carries. Midway through the third quarter on a 25 yard thrust he scored his second touchdown. The conversion attempts, however, made the difference as Bauer failed to convert on an extra point kick and Johnson's pass to Karem fell incomplete. For the third straight year the game between these two schools was decided by less than one touchdown.

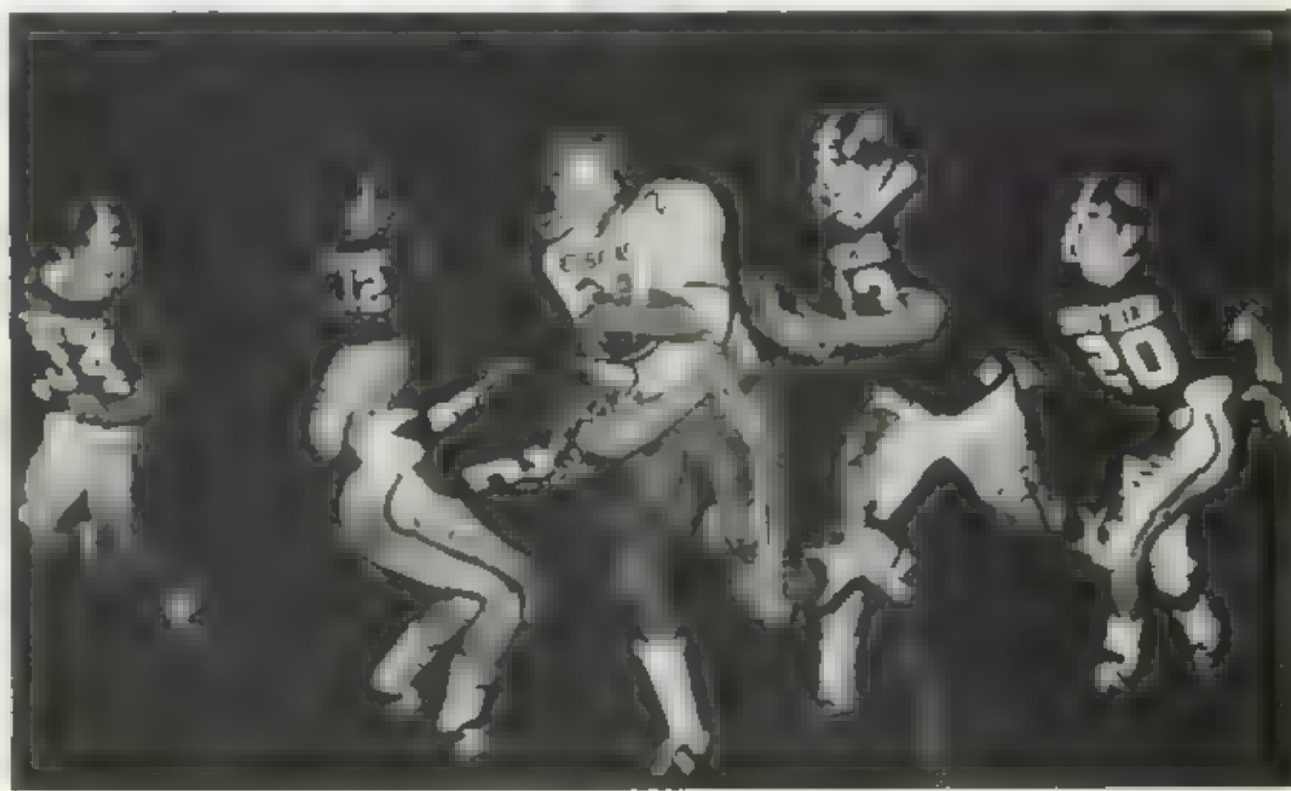

The Redskins left the field with a heads up attitude. Their defensive performance of clashing skulls and the offensive blocking left nothing to be ashamed of.

JEFFERSON TOWN 16

The taste of last week's defeat to the Bears was still sensed as Seneca sluggishly opened the field to the visiting Chargers. From the kickoff to the final whistle the Redskins were met by a highly spirited roster of hard hitting opponents. Seneca never really got started as they scored only one touchdown, by Henry Johnson and an extra point. Even the defense was slow as they allowed 16 points. Throughout the defensive game the Chargers constantly were echoed with the name of one mighty Redskin. Gary Gish managed to break through the opponents line time after time and was in on practically every tackle. It is certain that they knew this boy was there to play ball. From this time on Gish was a starter on the Redskin defense.

SENECA 26

WAGGENER 6

With two successive defeats behind them the Skins thought that it was time for a change. Putting their heads together, quarterback Bill Bauer suggested to Coach Zampino that he be switched to a halfback position. This way the tall and powerful Bauer would be eligible to receive more passes.

Benny Singleton made his first appearance as a Redskin quarterback and was quite impressive. He completed 7 of his 9 passes; one a 22 yard touchdown pass caught by Danny Karem. Benny himself scored on a one yard run.

Converted halfback Bill Bauer was also impressive as he snagged 4 of Singleton's 7 completions for a total of 67 yards. He then scored another touchdown on a 5 yard sprint. Junior, Duane Randle also entered the scoring ranks by grinding seven yards for a touchdown. It appeared that the team had jelled into an explosive bomb.

EASTERN 0

The tenacious Redskins were at their best as they met Eastern in this one-sided contest. Offensively, the score will speak for itself. Scoring for Seneca were: Henry Johnson with two touchdowns and two two-point conversions, while only playing the first half, Benny Singleton with a touchdown run of two yards and one of 27 yards, Bill Bauer on a 57 yard drive, Leo Nathanson on a 54 yard dash, and Danny Karem returning an intercepted pass for 32 yards.

It was the defense however, which was equally important in this show, as they completely shutout the Eagles. The skins held them to just three first downs, only 29 yards rushing and just seven of 26 pass completions.

SENECA 26

DURRETT 0

The Seneca Redskins readily destroyed the Durrett Demons by a score of 26-0. During the process they initiated a new play which caught the Demons by surprise. The new play, a tackle eligible pass from Singleton to Buddy Key, was used successfully twice in as many attempts. Both times the play rang up six points. Seneca actually penetrated the end zone six times but two of the scores, both by Henry Johnson, were called back by penalties. This didn't stop Johnson, though, as he contributed two other touchdowns. The Skin's defense also sparkled as it held Durrett scoreless by allowing only 73 yards rushing and just 61 yards passing. This was supplemented by two interceptions by Duane Randle, one ruining a Demon scoring threat at the Redskin 28 yardline.

THOMAS JEFFERSON 7

It was a dark Halloween night as fans set aside their tricks and treats to attend the battle to end all battles. Like a tug of war between giants the game between the Thomas Jefferson Patriots and our Redskins went on. It was nip and tuck all the way through the third quarter as both teams were unable to score. In the fourth quarter the bad news came. Thomas Jefferson's Elmore Stephens ripped home for a score and kicked the extra point to make it 7-0. To the Redskins it was do or die. They came alive with a 39 yard screen pass to Henry Johnson, who took the ball to the 12 yard line. Another play and the Skins were three yards closer to the goal, with the ball on the nine. The crowd was tense as Singleton took the center's snap, stepped back and uncocked a quick pass. Emotions spilled as the ball was snared by T.J.'s Elmore Stephens midway to its destination. The game ended with Seneca down 7-0.

FERN CREEK 0

Although Seneca's shot at the district championship had ended in the previous week, the Skins came back to leave a favorable impression upon the Fern Creek Tigers. Excellent performances were turned in by all of the seniors who were playing their final football game. As our Redskins opened up holes, Henry Johnson tallied 38 of Seneca's 41 points. Although all fully enjoyed Johnson's exhibition, his efforts were futile in an attempt to capture the county scoring title, for which he had been in contention all year. This was the final game of the season for Coach Al Zampino's Redskins which finished with a deserving 7-3 overall record.

And So Ends a Tradition at Seneca

On the field Coach Zampino was a sincere and dedicated leader

If ever there was a man who could be called a full-blooded Seneca Redskin, his name must be Coach Al Zampino. Rarely would a day of athletics pass without echoing the gruff sounding voice of our varsity football coach and Booster Club sponsor. Often he would be seen wearing his red knit shirt, a symbol of his love and spirit for Seneca. Through the years Mr. Zampino has become a Lonesome tradition.

Even more outstanding to the students is the sincerity of Zampino's personality. He is always himself, and that always made him "part of the gang." Whether he be exchanging philosophies with the highest of Seneca intellects or just telling jokes with the boys, Zampino is always smooth and sincere, with that certain class which is all his own.

It was his zest and love for humor that led the students to nickname him "Zippy" Zampino. On the field the coach was sincere and dedicated. In class he had his own cool style of learning while you have fun. In either place Mr. Zampino was always loved and respected.

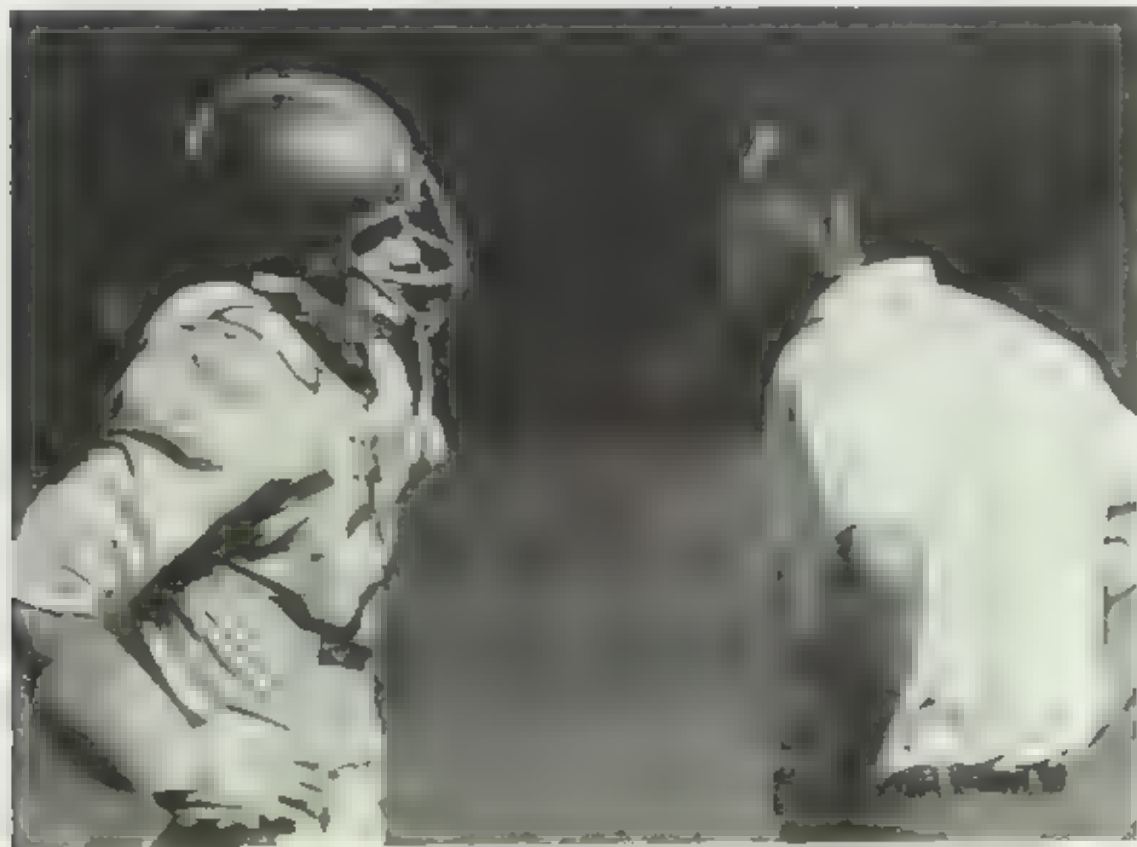

Midway through the school year the news spread through the grapevine that Coach Zampino would be leaving during the semester break. On December 19 Seneca's students were crowded into the gym for the annual Christmas program. Toward the end of the program, principal Mr. Wilson asked Coach Zampino to come before the assembly. The students felt a sharp pain of sadness, for the cheerful spirit of the season. With tear-filled eyes the Seneca students said goodbye to the tradition that had meant so much to the spirit of Lonesome. Coach Zampino explained that although he was leaving physically he would always remain a Redskin in both spirit and at heart.

The 1969 J.V. football team maintained Lonesome's winning tradition as they rolled to an undefeated season. Under the leadership of Coach John Cain these Redskins ran over their opponents, while holding each of these teams scoreless. Even though the team was without the services of several sophomores, who started on the varsity, the boys still compiled an impressive 4-0 won-lost record. With such an outstanding group moving up we Redskins are assured of looking forward to that special tradition of victory in the future.

This year's Varsity Cross Country runners ran up their second consecutive successful season with a record of 4-2-1. Our barriers placed fourth in the County meet, and finished third in the Regional meet. Bryan Howell and Don Cook also qualified for the State meet. With many team members returning and with some upcoming junior varsity runners, next year should be very promising for Cross Country coach Charles Jackson.

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." This is the motto of every player on the Seneca girls' hockey team. Led by captain, Pat McWhirter, Co-Captain, Barbara Beckham, and sponsored by Miss Forrest these girls made a fine second year showing.

The team fought against very stiff competition this year and finished the season with a creditable record of seven losses, no wins and one tie. Jane Adams powered the puck against Ursuline to tie the score at one to one.

Now that the girls have grown sufficient roots, we are anxiously awaiting next Hockey season when they will really "puck it to 'um!"

The girls track team participated in only three tri-meets this year because of rain. Through the excellent guidance of Miss Joan Kinstler, these girls came in second in all three of the meets, winning over Butler in two meets and Jefferson-town in the last.

Obea Crittenden ran the 75 yard dash to place third in the county meet. She also ran the 50 yard and 75 yard dashes in the regional tournament and placed fourth and first. Her final achievement was placing fourth in the 75 yard dash in the state meet.

Obea Crittenden was named the most valuable on the girls track team and Findy Samuels, the captain, was voted the best in team spirit of '69.

With the ever-increasing interest in track at Seneca, next year is sure to be a most successful year for these girls.

SENECA'S MUSCLE MEN

The wrestling season of 1970 like many of this year's sports will go down in the Redskin history books as a year of building. Six of the starting men from last year graduated leaving quite a few inexperienced 'skins to fill their moccasins. Those wrestlers who did return left an impressive mark on the mat. Frank Robinson was defeated only by the state champion, while Dwight Williams remained undefeated throughout the entire year, before being stricken to the sidelines at state tournament time by a bad case of strep throat. Over half of the squad from this year will return with a year's experience which should insure a successful 1971 wrestling season.

The Giant of 1970

Never in the history of Seneca has there been a basketball season in which teamwork played such an imperative role. This was due to the fact that for the first time in years Seneca was a relatively small team. There was no 6' 8" giant for the team to lean on. Consequently, each man had to do his own part, thus binding the team into a close knit ball club. As the only returning starter, Bill Bauer, stated, "There's more team effort" and added, "It makes it more interesting."

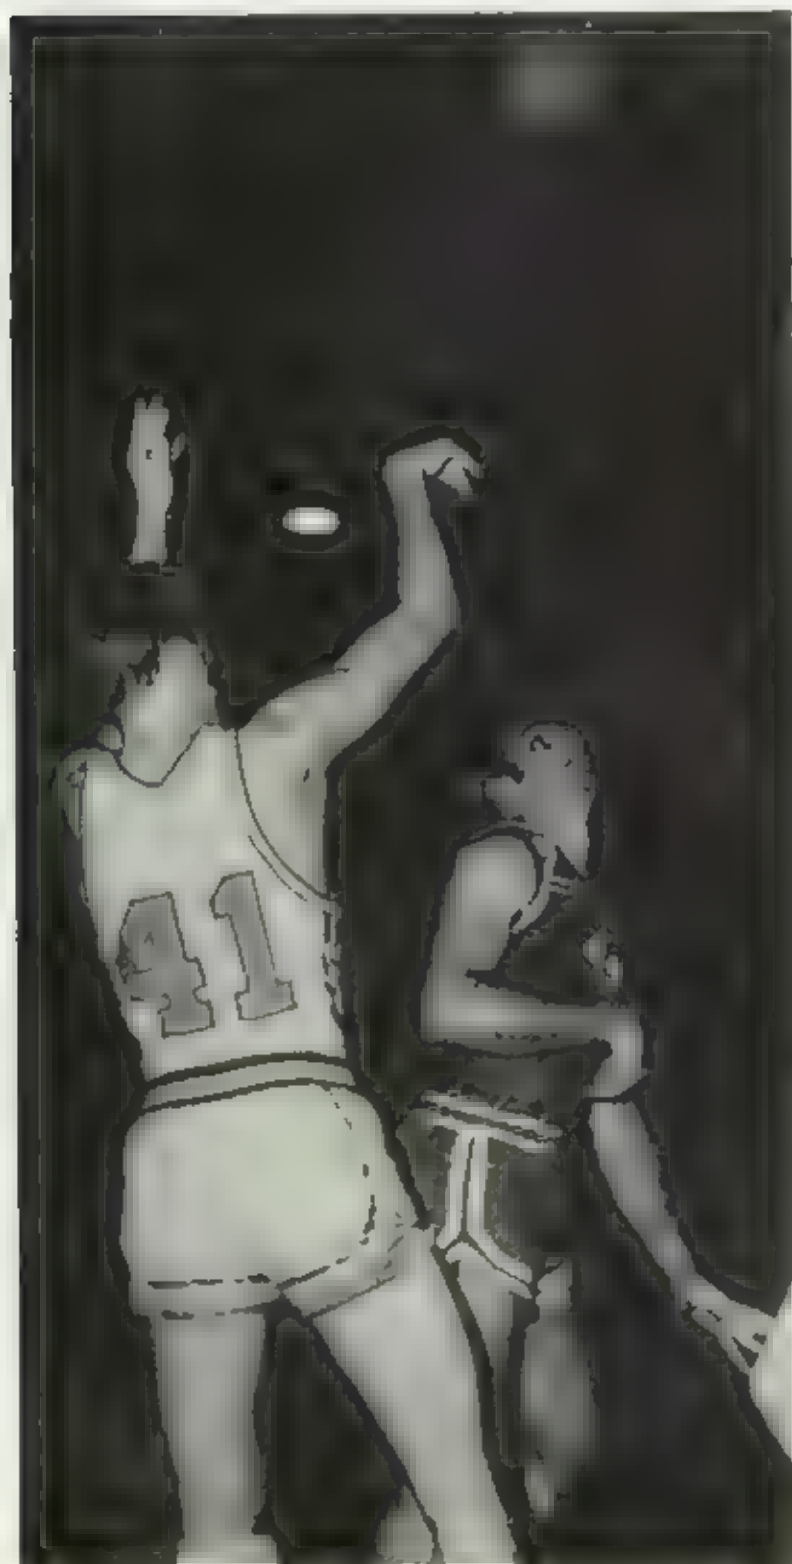

Throughout the season, Bauer, playing guard or forward, was spectacular in putting his experience to work by setting and leading the team. Another Senior, Anders Egt, should also be commended for his fine play as a first year starting forward, as should Finley Hayes who played guard.

For the coming years the 1970 squad showed an excellent Redskin bloodline. With Junior Gary Cosby at center, John Vaden and John Winstead at forward and Sophomore Steve Bush at guard, there is some exciting basketball lying ahead.

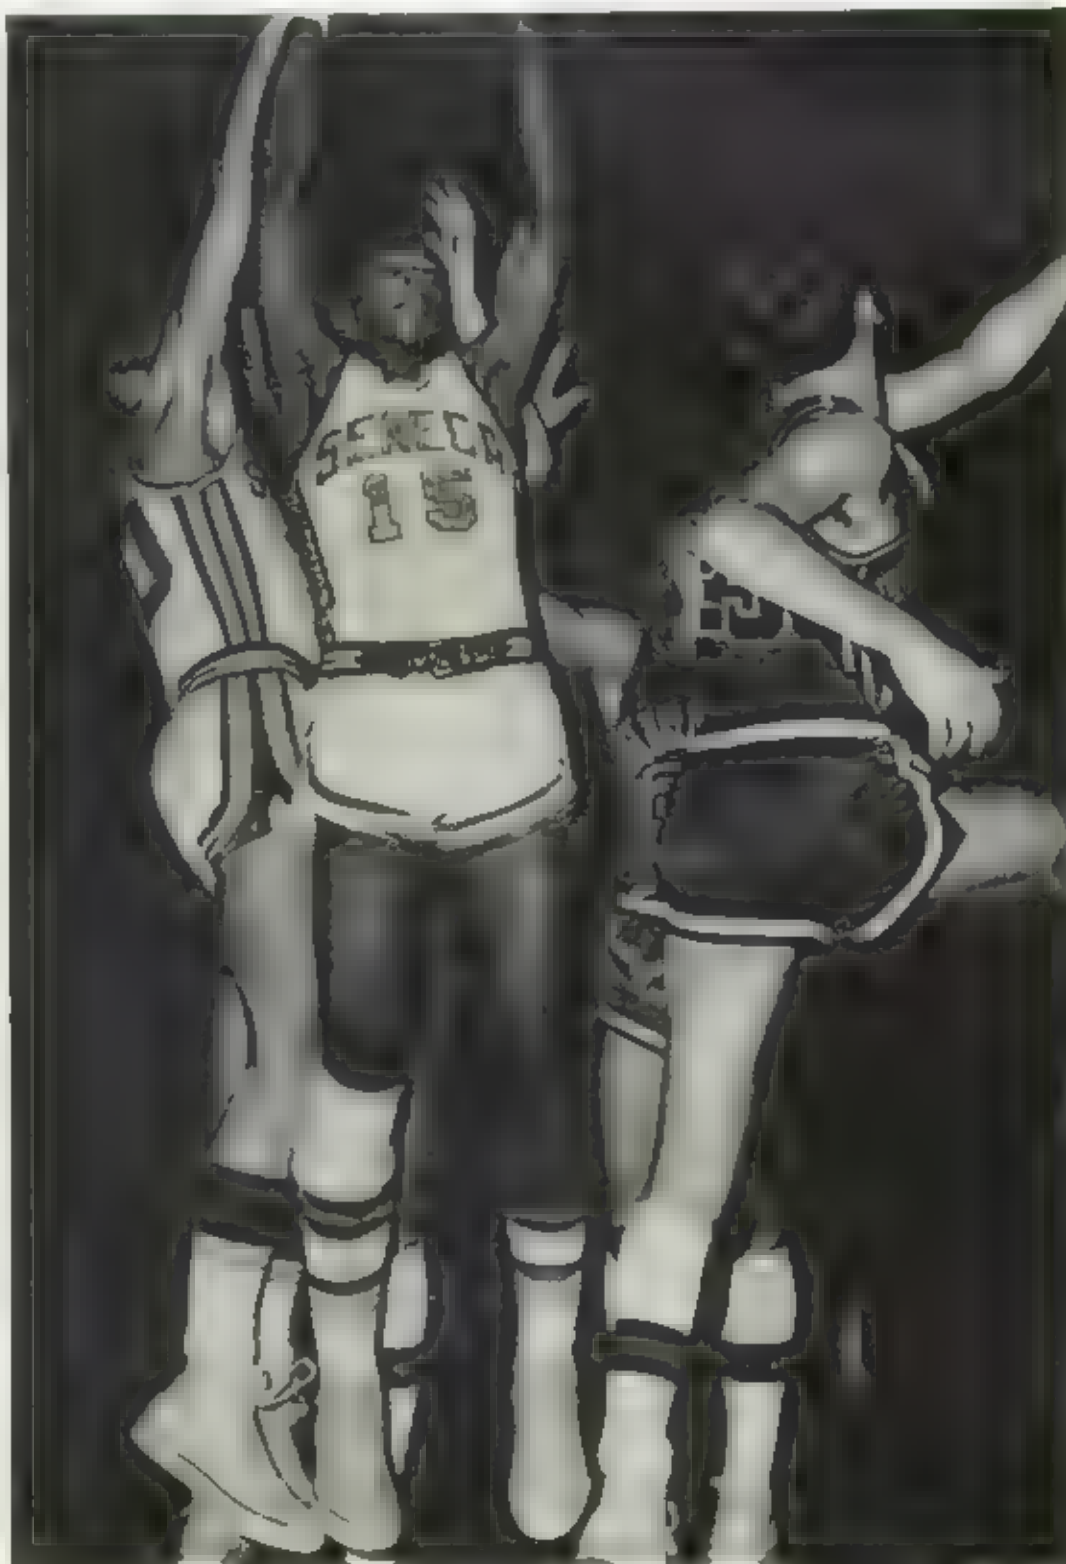

Congratulations to this year's squad for the fine effort they put forth throughout the season.

After last year's successful J.V. season it's hard to see how any team can be compared to that one. However, lively Coach Davis, in his second year at Seneca, seemed dedicated to the cause and compiled another outstanding record. After a new rule was enforced to allow Juniors to gain the experience needed for varsity by playing an additional season of Junior Varsity ball, the Javvees actually became a Redskin "B" squad. This change combined experience with aggressiveness which is reflected in the fine shooting, stylish ball handling, and tenacious defense of the J.V.'s. Many sophomores showed enough class to be promoted to this year's fine varsity.

The Freshman basketball team also shows great promise for future seasons. It took ability to knock off such rivals as St. X, Westport, Moore, and Country Day. Coming up with a winning season this year, they surely can be expected to carry Seneca's winning tradition into the future.

Peter Gaddie backhands the ball back into the racket of his opponent.

Spring of 1969 marked a year of "almosts" for the Redskin Tennis Team. The netters began the season with a 4-3 victory over a tough Atherton squad, and finished their schedule strongly, scoring easy victories over Eastern and Fern Creek. The team's slate between these wins showed five more victories with three defeats. One of the losses was to perennial power St. Xavier, who this year claimed both singles and doubles state champs. The other two defeats were 4-3 losses at the hands of Westport and Waggener. Both of these matches were highlighted by several close decisions. Thus, the "Racketeers" feel that a few breaks in their favor would have earned them the East Jefferson County Championship, with an unbeaten record in county competition.

Prospects for 1970 are bright with only three seniors leaving the squad: Peter Gaddie, Harry Kranz, and Larry Nussbaum. Although each was a starter this year, the gaps should be ably filled by fast-improving Don Paper, Ross and Bevan Kushner, Bill Simpson, and several other capable underclassmen.

Lonesome is expecting next year's charges under Coach Orville Williams to turn this year's "almosts" into "all the ways."

ON ALERT GET SET . . . GO!

Under the leadership of Coach Michael Lynn the Seneca swim team has received its waterwings for the 1970 season.

The team has made vast improvements in supervised practice on their individual as well as team rhythm and timing. As a result many notice that their strokes have improved.

The swimmers pictured at the left are probably Seneca's best bet to make a good showing in the remaining meets in which they will participate. Some of these young people are good enough to go places in the State Tournament which is held every spring. With them Seneca should have very good prospects for next season, too. It's a young club which will have time to develop.

We wish them good luck.

Fencing is the art of attack and defense with a foil or sword. Formerly in eighteenth century France, fencing was a type of duel, but today it is an organized sport for men and women.

The object of fencing is to touch the opponent, but to remain untouched by return attacks. The fencer maintains a balanced crouch with knees bent, the weapon with point out and arm bent, with the other arm raised with the hand bent upward. The armor of a modern fencer includes a white uniform, a wire mask, and a foil.

Because it is not possible to follow a lightening fast thrust, to judge, electrification of the foil has been introduced. This allows touches to be recorded more accurately.

Fencing has returned to open a new decade (having been here in 1960), and it looks as if it has a prominent future and following here. The ARROW salutes the team in reintroducing this popular and exciting activity to Seneca.

The Redskins streaked down the cinderpath this spring as if on the warpath. Broken records and a winning record of 6 wins and one loss, tell the story of the 69 track season under the new leadership of Coach Bob Gabhart.

Before leaving for spring vacation the team began the season by racking up three wins against Durrett, Jeffersontown and Waggener. The next meets with Pleasure Ridge and Fern Creek were rained out, however they returned from vacation to whip Southern and Manual. The 'skins were looking their best as they broke two school records and tied a third. The 880 relay team was credited with the establishment of one new record and Eddie Henson cut over four seconds off the old two mile record with his time of 10:31". Henry Johnson tied the high hurdles running record of 13.9". Earlier in the year Carey Eaves also set a new record in the 100 yard dash with his time of 10.9".

The last meet of the season which was a triangular meet against Atherton and Jeffersontown brought the 'skins their first defeat. Seneca made a clean sweep in the 100 yard dash with Ralph Pettway, Tim Cyrus and Larry Bailey. Henry Johnson won the 180 yard low hurdles as Darryl Bishop cleaned up the triple jump and Don Russell won the shot put. But these scores were not enough as the 'skins came in second to Atherton.

After the regular season Charles Mitchell, Doug Beckham and Don Russell qualified for the county track meet. The team had ended another successful season and the cinderpath was left to cool.

The days become longer; the sun hotter. A gentle breeze drifts through the open classroom window as that "common as a cold" sickness called "spring fever" veils all thoughts. For many boys it is that time of the year when ball gloves replace books and a daydreamed picture of a baseball game mentally blocks out those algebraic equations on the board.

With twelve experienced seniors the baseball team had, for the first time in three years, a coach with a year's experience. For Coach Jackson and his team behind a fine pitching staff and sporting new uniforms things were looking up for the coming season.

The many good points of the '69 sluggers, however, seemed to be overshadowed by that one crippler . . . bad luck. A look at the score sheets might give some hint as to the amount of excitement which the team encountered. Although 13 losses out weighed their nine wins, it could have just as easily been 15 or 16 wins; for many of the games were lost by one run toward the end of the game and could have gone either way. Unluckily it went the wrong way most of the time for the Skins and the season ended with a typical 1-0 loss to Westport in the district finals.

Special tribute should be paid to Gordie Raymond who was recognized by Coach Jackson as the most improved player and to second baseman Bill Earls and shortstop Steve Bush who comprized says the coach "one of the best double-play combinations I've ever seen." Raymond and Bush will be returning next year along with many new boys who will be victims of that old spring fever.

As the saying goes, "Better luck next time."

The Student Council Representatives

A heavy load is in each Christmas basket

The Student Council, voice of the students of Seneca, is composed of representatives and alternates, self nominated and elected in English classes. These representatives are responsible for the Student Council.

The first activity sponsored this year by the Seneca Student Council was the annual Football Homecoming. One month later Seneca's Student Council was the host to the state-wide Kentucky Association of Student Council's Convention. There were 1,200 students participating, meeting in discussion groups, and exchanging ideas on the problems pertinent to the Student Council and the community. Dr. Robert Mills, President of Georgetown College, spoke of the convention theme, "A Stronger Youth Today for a Stronger America Tomorrow." The Student Council's next project was the Christmas basket drive which gave a Christmas dinner to fifteen families in the area surrounding Seneca. There are standing committees, Grievance, Projects, and Constitution which deal with the aspirations and problems of Seneca students.

Good News Club

A different but enlightening club was formed last year by Mr. Jackson. A group of students met every Monday and Friday morning to discuss the "good news," which is of course the word of God, through readings in the Bible. The members, appropriately called the Good News Club, felt this was one way to draw closer to God and his ways of life. Membership is open to everyone, regardless of their religious affiliation. The members try to convey these messages to others they meet. Seneca is proud of this group.

Public Relations Club

As the world changes, public relations become more difficult to maintain between individuals, organizations and corporations. One group at Seneca however is striving to learn how to react toward these problems. Under the direction of Mrs. Thornberry these Redskins plan such projects as an annual Christmas Party at Children's Hospital and a possible She-Male Contest. Various speakers have talked to the club on subjects pertaining to the public relations of a big corporation to the individual. The Public Relations Club is a beneficiary service organization from which all Redskins could learn more about getting along in the adult world we will be entering soon.

Youth Speaks

Youth Speaks is an organization by and for Seneca High School students. As the name implies, the primary interest of Youth Speaks is in communication, dialogue, and discussion. Youth Speaks is in existence at Seneca to provide a forum of expression and a link of communication between the students and the administration as well as between different segments within the student body itself.

The Youth Speakers at Seneca believe that communication means service as well as discussion, and thus there are several activities within the club through which the members can express their concern for the community and the world in which they live. Youth Speaks is trying to help "today" students of Seneca take their place as citizens with a better understanding of the world and what can be done to improve it.

Key Club

The Key Club is Seneca's philanthropic organization. The young men in the club work jointly with Kiwanis Club to aid and benefit the community. The Key Club will continue toward its goal of peace and goodwill. The sponsor is Mr. Bruce Taylor and the President is Alan Plattus.

Art Club

This year composed the first decade of Seneca's Art Club. Under the leadership of present Dean H. F. Ray and the guidance of Mr. Ray, the Art Club has not only raised money for a field trip to other communities but also by selling such items as paper flowers for the school. The club has a room to do its work.

Debate Team

Under the hand of a new sponsor the Debate team, a member of the Louisville Forensics League, argued its way to victory. With expert help from Mr. Gary Parker and guidance from captain Alan Plattus the team prepared to go to the regional with enthusiasm and spirit. Members of the team included juniors Alan Plattus and Katie Gilbert, and sophomores Frank Lily and Sarah Thurman. Assisting the team are alternates Steve Swan and Paul Malin.

"S" Club

Participation is the key word as far as the "S" Club is concerned. Every member of the "S" Club has participated in one or more athletic sports at Seneca High and earned his varsity letter. These activities include the super basketball class, lazy gymnastics I and II, catch me if you can games, and many more. and the Battle of the Bulge Diversion tactics. These ever-popular activities are better known as football, basketball, track, baseball, golf, tennis, and wrestling. Seneca has always been exceptionally well represented in each of these fields and does not lack in enthusiasm, endeavor or energy. The coaches who are makers of these young athletes are to be commended for producing such fine sportsmen. These promising athletes continually lead Seneca on to bigger and newer athletic accomplishments and victories.

Future Teachers of America

Senior

The Senior Future Teachers of America is composed of junior and senior students interested in the teaching profession. Under the leadership of Laura Stephens, President; Ellen Bailey, Vice-President; Paula Sharp, Secretary; Maxine Rowe, Treasurer; Carole Mueller, Historian; and sponsors

Mrs. Manahan and Mrs. Duffy, they had a very successful year. Some of the projects included tutoring at Brooklawn Children's Home each week and sewing apples after school and confetti at the football games. Along with these activities, each member was requested to be a student aide.

Junior

The Junior Future Teachers of America is one of Seneca's most worthwhile organizations. It consists of freshman and sophomore girls who are willing to give up their study hours to help teachers. Among their club projects were speakers concerning the different levels of teaching, a Halloween party for the children at Brooklawn and a Thanksgiving basket drive for a needy family. The officers are Debbie Korlhage, President; Susie Spurlock, Vice-President; Terry Kuhn, Secretary; Amy Slaven, Treasurer; Peggy Walsh, Sergeant at Arms; Dawn Davidson, Program Chairman. The sponsors are Miss Meredith and Mrs. Garner.

F.B.L.A.

This year the Future Business Leaders of America, under the direction of Mrs. Lacy and Mrs. Gildea, has undergone many improvements in its premiere year. Having launched another calendar of events the sponsors are even more optimistic than previously. Even though the F.B.L.A. is a relatively new organization at Seneca, its many activities show that it has been developed with great insight. This year's officers are President, Mary Jane Butler; Vice-President, Joyce Frick; Secretary, Bucky Baker, Treasurer, Pam Ransdell; Historian, Regina Heil, and Reporter, Susan Stanton.

F.H.A.

The Future Homemakers of America are a civic minded group that perform great services to the community. This year they gave a Christmas party for a needy child and served coffee for the teachers. During the course of the year the young ladies also serve food at the various banquets.

In the fall and spring the girls attend district conferences and some of the girls attend leadership conferences to better qualify themselves to serve as officers for their organization. Mrs. Schube and Mrs. Hardin are the sponsors of this hardworking and very beneficial organization.

Junior Red Cross

The Junior Red Cross at Seaside High School is a well-known group. Their purpose is to encourage and provide information about the Red Cross, participate in fund-raising work. As one of their projects is to raise money for the purchase of gifts for the convalescent patients of Clatsop Hospital.

Mu Alpha Theta

Mu Alpha Theta, the National Math Club, was organized last year at Seaside. It was organized by a group of students who were interested in mathematics and were presented to the sponsor, Mr. M. J. Joss, for the honor of being named to the National Math Club.

However, they didn't just sit around and brag. At their meetings they held speakers, and explored the depths of the new cutting uses of mathematics and how to use it. Mu Alpha Theta was really well when

The fact that two Americans walked on the moon, gathered specimens for scientific investigation, and planted the American flag to commemorate the event was a forewarning of a unique year at Seneca. As our country gathered all its resources to set the Apollo 11 module on the surface of the moon, a group of Seneca Redskins worked harmoniously, winding up the machinery to record another eventful year at Seneca.

The Arrow '70 staff members wanted to define the way the Redskins always go about reaching excellence. They first had to find the reason Seneca has been outstanding in so many fields. After deliberation they concluded that the only catalyst that could produce such outstanding results was PARTICIPATION.

To discover how the school ticked, the Arrow Staff could not bury themselves under copy sheets in Room 218! They, too, as individuals had to go into the school and participate. Among the members of the staff who participated in and led other activities were Tom Welsh, Student Council President; Candi Turner and Linda Lukat, president and treasurer of Mu Alpha Theta; and Laura Stephens, Senior FTA President. Immediately after events such as the state student council convention and homecoming the Arrow Staff would record the memories in Arrow '70 for the school.

The Sentinel

The Sentinel knows what is going on at Seneca! Each month Carolyn Halsell's enthusiastic Redskins put together an exciting issue of the Sentinel containing current events, happenings at Seneca and around the world, entertaining stories and controversial subjects. Under the leadership of Miss Barbara Combes the Sentinel has made a tremendous contribution to the school this year.

The Sentinel is divided into different staffs, each doing its own thing. Each job is essential in the production of the paper. The admirable work done by these staffs merits congratulations.

Every Redskin should support the Sentinel and should appreciate the time, work, and effort that goes into making it such a success.

Russian Club

A new "teepee" was added to the Seneca village. Chief, Mr. Kunkle, recently organized the Russian Club for all of the courageous squaws and braves taking Russian. Others leading in this endeavor were: Chairman, Paula Sharp; Treasurer, Mark Manning; and Secretary, Becky Braun.

In December at Cherokee Path, there was an all county Russian Club "pow-wow." Their plans for this year were aimed in the direction of the annual Christmas Party which was held at Seneca.

Preparations were also made to "Russianize" room 342.

On behalf of all the students at Seneca, Lonesome says,

"Beiro Xopowero!" which means Good Luck.

German Singing Group

There were five languages offered at Seneca. The German language was a very difficult one, but it was also a very interesting one. The Germans stressed their culture to make well rounded students. The German department tried to follow the German people by having this singing group. This group was made of the third and fourth year students. The group sang German songs and performed once a year at the annual March of Dimes at Guthrie Green on Fourth Street under the leadership of Mrs. Cynthia Herren.

French Singing Group

The French singing group was a newly formed organization composed of third and fourth year French students. Students who took three years of French before dropping language were also able to join. For those students it provided a good opportunity to keep in contact with the language. This group, under the leadership of Miss Arnold, was only one of many that brought the culture and social life of foreign countries to Seneca.

Spanish Club

This year the Spanish Club has strived to continue the excellent work it has done in the past. The Christmas party with the various language classes, the second annual Spanish fair, and selling flowers were among the activities in which the club members participated. The Spanish Club is one of Seneca's largest and most active clubs, under the capable leadership of president, Katy Gilbert; vice-president, Maggie Conley, secretary, Sara Thurman; treasurer, Rick Stephan; historian, Marilyn Robie, and sergeants at arms, Herbie Bruce and Greg Fleck. With these able Redskins and their sponsors, Miss Dunlap, Miss Rios, Miss Young, and Miss Tschudy, the Spanish Club will continue to be a success.

J.C.L.

This has been a good year for the Seneca Junior Classical League. With such sponsors as Mrs. Chandon and Mrs. McDowell, how could any Redskin organization be anything but a success? The Annual Calendar Contest and a two-nighted Roman Banquet helped to make the J.C.L. one of Seneca's outstanding organizations. This year, however, was made unique by the fact that this Redskin group initiated a two-day state convention which was held downtown at the Seelbach Hotel. A National Convention trip is also offered for those who are most interested in its opportunities.

STUDENTS

THE "ROOTBEER BOYS"

Seneca had a good year on both the football and the basketball floor, mainly because the teams were loyal and dedicated to winning. But there was another important reason; the students were behind them. That's where the Pep Club came in. Organizing pep rallies throughout the year, sticking up posters and showing the team that the school was behind them was what they did. With President, Susie Spaul, Vice-President, Harry Chapman; Secretary, Lynn Benda; and Treasurer, Kirby Perkins, they helped the teams complete another successful year. As the drums roll and the tassels toss, excitement fills the air and Seneca's "82 Legs" marched onto the court. These girls radiated a feeling of joy and warmth to all that watched.

Under the well qualified leadership of Captain Obea Crittenden and guidance of Miss Pat Richardson, the Drill Corps had their finest year of all.

Marching in parades and at our home games is not all the Drill Corps does. They had their annual dance January 16 and appeared at Kentucky Wesleyan College. The girls also sold Halloween candy and raffle tickets to raise money.

MISS REELS, Sponsor

At all the games this year everyone saw seven of Seneca's most energetic and enthusiastic Redskins out on the field or court yelling their loudest to support the team on to victory. These dedicated girls compose the varsity cheerleading squad. Their purpose is to lead the crowd in vells or to control them if the need arises. During the summer they attended clinics at Eastern University, Western University and the University of Kentucky where the squad gained much knowledge and experience needed to be good cheerleaders. The squad ranked high at each clinic. Under the sponsorship of Miss Joyce Reels and leadership of captain Brenda Dorsey these girls have contributed greatly this year to keeping the spirit of Lonesome alive.

Beautiful, vivacious, and exuberant are the words that best describe the Junior Varsity Cheerleaders. These Seneca lovelies display their remarkable talents at the J. V. football and basketball games with a fiery spirit that inspires victory in the minds of players and the spectators. The combination of the girls' hard work and their natural gracefulness creates a scintillating affect felt deeply by all who have pride in Seneca. With effort and spirit such as that shown by the J. V. Cheerleaders, it's no wonder Seneca is spurred on to victory.

The Majorettes, Pam Van Gilder, Cathy Parker, and Claudia Cruse attended Camp Crescendo in the Summer and in the State Twirling Contest ranked in the top five. Also assisting the Majorettes are the Alternates, Jocelyn Jutten, Debbie Gocke, and Kitty Hall. Seneca is grateful to have such talented beauties, need we say more?

Orchestra

Music sets the mood for so many functions held at Seneca, and it is the Seneca Orchestra that adds that touch of magic so necessary to enchant an audience. Beautiful programs, perfected by untold hours of practice, are prime examples of the fine talent that can be found among the members. The performances of "Hello Dolly," the annual Christmas Concert, the music festival, and the Calendar Girl Contest are indications of the enthusiasm and the willingness to work that each member must possess. However, we all know that there can be no orchestra without a conductor. Mr. Wach, a very talented director, is well aware of his obligations, and carries out his responsibilities well. It is he who provides the finishing touches as well as that little spark that makes a performance by the Seneca Orchestra a most rewarding listening experience. Lonsome is extremely proud of this fine orchestra and has high hopes for the years ahead.

The Pep Band of Seneca High School is a truly great group composed of some of the finest musicians in the area. The group consists of ten brass instruments, three woodwinds, and two percussionists. They perform at all school games and are a great sight to see. The group has shown such excellent talent that they will have no trouble competing in the Kootenai County District Games. Every day school at Seneca is "Wormed for Man" and "Hawai Five-O." The leader of the group, the bassoonist, has been chosen as a pep band member.

Mr. Wich Plan, plan, plan

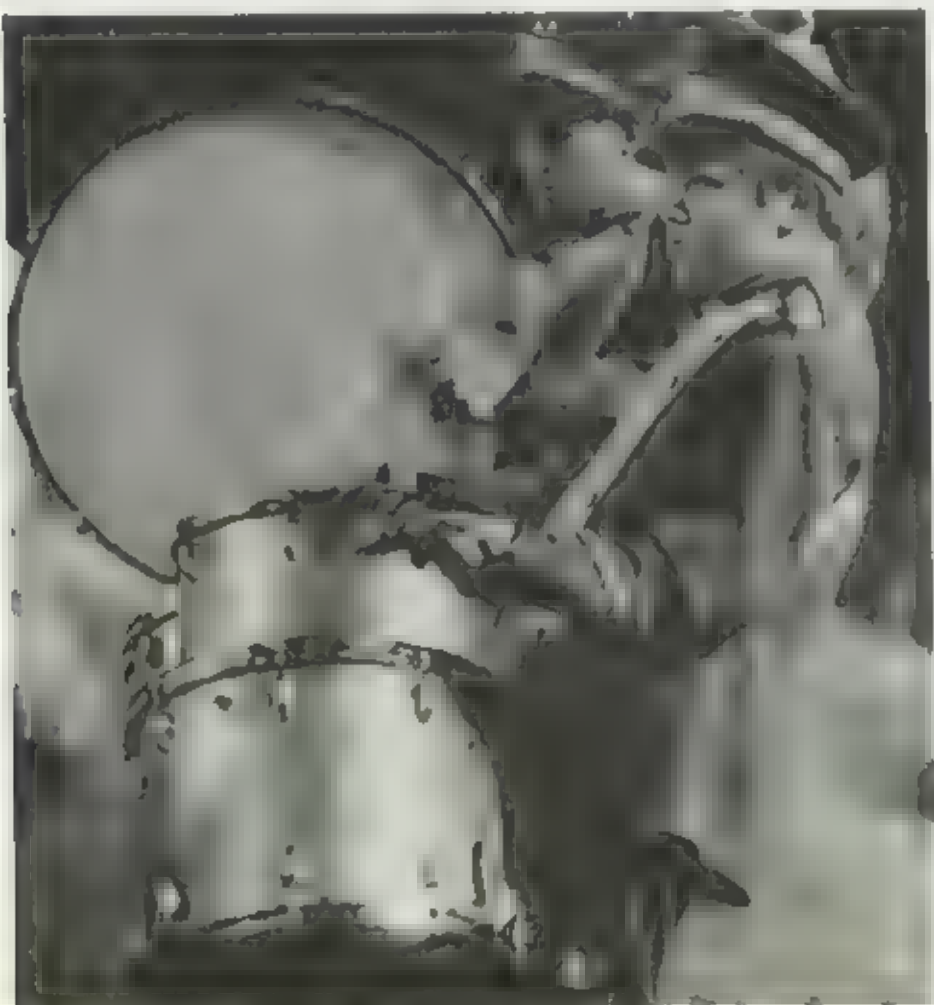

The Seneca High School Marching Band, under the direction of Mr. Harold Wich and Drum Majors David Martin and Marvin Wells, presented many halftime spectacles during the course of the year. At various times throughout the summer, Crescendo Band Camp was attended by the drum majors, and then later by the band as a whole. Throughout the state, the band also competed in many marching contests and ranked in the top ten in all. This year the band had two Drum Majors and marched Precision Drill, both new for the Seneca Band.

The Color Guard was another impressive group. Presenting the colors of the United States, they presented perfect honor and respect for our country as they properly displayed the flag.

The rifle team was something to really look forward to. With their precision and the low grade in an indoor rifle range, they sharpened their aim to beat the other teams with which they competed.

A new addition to the ROTC program was the formation of the Cadet Club. It's provided informal terms and relaxation for the ROTC boys.

All in all, it was a successful year for the ROTC unit.

THE MIXED CHORUS

It has been said that "music produces a kind of pleasure which human nature cannot do without." This year at Sevier a very fine Choral Department provided us with such pleasure. Under the capable leadership of teacher and director, Miss Stephens, the Chorus Groups presented many enjoyable programs and also were invited to perform at places outside of school. The Christmas Concert, the Spring Concert, and the annual music festival at Freedom Hall were programs to be remembered for a long time to come. The Mixed Chorus, Girls' Chorus, Chorus, Madrigal, and Bel Canto make up Sevier's Choral Department. Every member has done his share to make each performance outstanding. With singers like these, we can look forward to a bright future for the arts.

Office Aides

Senior High

The steady clicking of a typewriter, the ringing of the telephone, and the shuffling of feet are only a few of the familiar sounds heard as the Senior High Office Aides attend to the seemingly endless chores in the Senior High Office. These industrious students give up a period of their daily schedule — their study hall — so that affairs in the office can run more smoothly. Their many duties include signing students in and out, answering the telephone, and in general, assisting the office secretaries. Many of them pass out the absence sheets in the morning and collect detention sheets in the afternoon. The office aides also run numerous errands and assist persons who come into the office. Above all, the Senior High Office Aides never fail to attend to the "odds and ends" that help make the office a well-organized place of business. Efficiency is the goal for which they are so continuously striving.

Junior High

Without the Junior High Office Aides willing to leave their study halls in order to carry out the strenuous duties of signing students in and out, trudging up and down the stairs, passing out the absence sheets, the same route again and again, answering the telephone calls fromirate parents, providing information and assistance to sometimes frantic students, and completing all of the other tasks that the secretaries have little or no time for, whereas, they so faithfully fulfilled these jobs, be it resolved that in the school year, nineteen hundred sixty-nine and seventy, we now therefore pay tribute to all these willing and indispensable helpers.

Lutescent

T.V.

The T.V. Office Aides are vital to the educational television program at Seneca. Without these students the T.V. teachers would not be able to devote as much time to their classes. These assistants give their study hall period so they can help the T.V. teachers with the many chores connected with the large television classes such as grading, filing, duplicating, stapling papers, and running errands. These students certainly make an important contribution to the T.V. Office.

Seneca's Helpers

Our lunchroom ladies treat us instead of tricking us

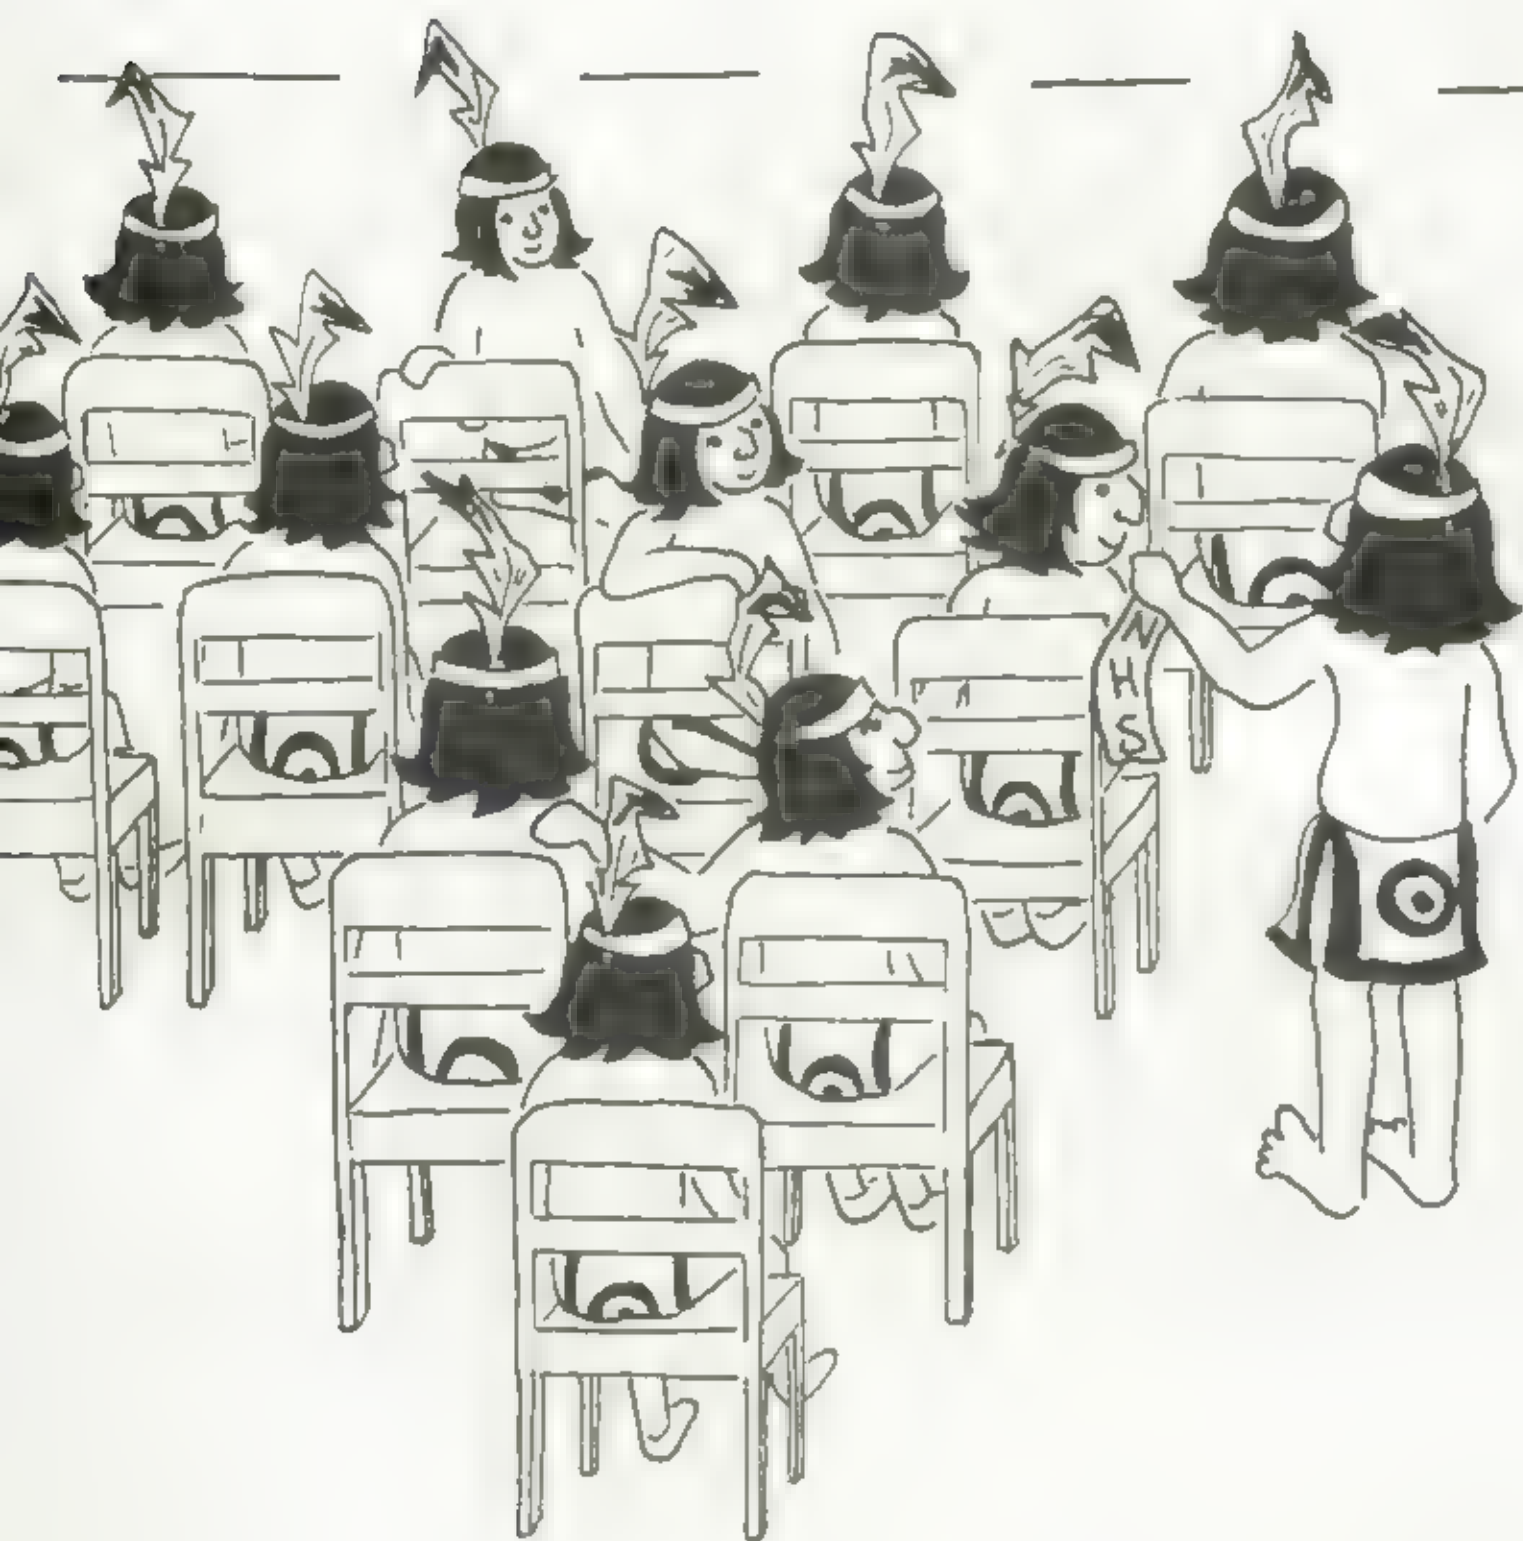

The lunchroom workers are truly Seneca's helpers. Most of them have had children attending Seneca, so they have the students' interests at heart. In addition to the thirty regular helpers there are five students who willingly give up their study periods to perform various jobs, such as getting out extra milk at lunchtime. The menus are planned one month in advance and sent to the School Board to assure a well balanced diet. The lunchroom, now jointly serving Goldsmith and Seneca, was originally designed to accommodate only an elementary school. It serves, on the average, 1,950 students a day. In spite of the limited space and the great number of students to be served each day, the lunchroom workers provide Seneca with nutritious lunches. The manager of the lunchroom workers is Mrs. Schwartz.

Mr. H. Lane

If any group of people should be congratulated for a job well done, it is the custodians of Seneca. There are eleven regular custodians and one head custodian, Herman Lane. Two custodians are assigned to maintain each floor. Four custodians work during the day, and eight work from 3.00 to 11.30 at night. Their main job is to keep the building clean and the students of Seneca truly appreciate their efforts.

The NHS represents a small percentage of the Senior class chosen for their scholastic achievement. These students must have at least a 3.5 point average. However, this is just the beginning as each student must be analyzed by his former teachers for his leadership, character and service to others.

The induction of the new members is a very special occasion. Juniors are inducted in the spring of the year. In the ceremony for inductees, the old NHS members explain the qualifications of membership. At that time a eulogy is read and the appropriate member is tapped. He is then escorted to the stage to recite the NHS oath and receive his certificate of membership. The tension is relieved later at a party given by the old members.

The NHS is more than an honorary society. The NHS strives to make use of the ability of its members through a tutoring service. Students who feel they need academic assistance submit their name to the NHS through their teachers. These students are then provided with a tutor.

Although the NHS has suffered a great loss with the death of Mr. Mayer, it has succeeded in maintaining its high standards. Seneca owes much to the NHS and its new and capable sponsor, Mr. Raymond.

I Do Not Go Alone

If Death should beckon me
with outstretched hand
And whisper softly of "An Unknown Land" . . .
I shall not be afraid to go.
For though the path I do not know,
I take Death's Hand
without a fear.
For He who safely brought me here
Will also take me
safely back.
And though in many things I lack,
He will not let me
go alone
Into the "Valley That's Unknown" . . .
So I reach out
and take Death's Hand
And journey to the "Promised Land"!

ANNE MASLER

The Junior Classical League held its annual state convention at the Brown Hotel this year. Seneca was again well represented by a large number of the school's J.C.L.

membership. In the competitions, three Senior Redskins received awards. They were Glenn Nelson, Margie Lowe and Anne Masler. The convention ended as a great success.

The Math Team

Again this year Seneca had a math team to be proud of. The team is sponsored by the Math Club. The members of the team are selected according to scores from an examination given at the first of the year. The three top scores from the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes as well as 2 alternates from each class are chosen.

The Math Team competed in three county-wide contests. They placed first in their district with a score of 415.

The Math Team worked very hard to achieve the standard they maintain. More is necessary than a simple interest in mathematics. The members of the team must work constantly to broaden their field of knowledge. The Math Team now looks to many years of increased learning and success.

Modern Music Masters

The musical talents of Seneca High School are well represented by the Modern Music Masters. This is an honorary society for musically inclined students and is sponsored by Mr. Wich, band leader, and Miss Stevens, choral director. To qualify for membership a student must have had at least one year of chorus or band. These students are then eligible to take an examination given to Seniors at the first of the year and underclassmen in the spring. If the students pass the examination, they are initiated by the club members and presented with the Modern Music Masters pin.

The Modern Music Masters has regular meetings and elected officers as follows: Pres., John Petry; Vice President, Herby Bruce; Treasurer, Wes Applegate; and Secretary, Ellen Bailey.

Achievement — Character — Leadership

The Beta Club officers welcome the inductees with a handshake and a warm smile.

Academic achievement — character — leadership — these three qualities must be attained before a student is eligible for membership in the Seneca Beta Club, the largest in the nation. The Beta Club stands as proof that many Redskins excel not only in athletics but in "scholastics" as well. The primary purposes of the club are to stimulate effort, to reward achievement and to encourage students to continue their education after high school. The officers — Garland Scott, Pres.; Tyson Williams, Veep; Andrea Rabbeth, Secretary; and Dick Williams — are leading the Beta Club to becoming one of Seneca's most active organizations. Each year, the Beta Club sponsors the Aurora, the school literary magazine and the "S Book," a publication describing clubs and organizations at Seneca. All of this would not be possible without the patient guidance of the club sponsors, Mrs. Barnes and Mr. Francis. The members, old and new, will undoubtedly strive to maintain their high standing in order to remain in this honored organization.

National Merit Scholars

The opportunity to become a National Merit Scholar is made available to Juniors throughout the state of Ky. each February. These students are tested for their possessed knowledge as well as for their capabilities in the major subjects. Those students whose scores rank among the top 1% of the state become National Merit Scholar semi-finalists. Letters of commendation are presented to those who came within a few points of becoming semi-finalists.

The semi-finalists are tested further and asked to outline their plans for future education. The students are then interviewed by those companies who sponsor the scholarships.

Seneca Redskins have always made a good showing in trying for the National Merit Scholarships, and Seneca is proud!

Students who received letters of commendation are as follows, left to right Margie Lowe, Candi Turner, Margaret Herde, Glenn Davis, and Jim Amelang.

Marcia Regenauer receives the Smith Book award for Excellence in English.

Gary Lindenberger receives the Harvard Book award for scholastic achievement.

Ellen Bailey receives the Mt. Holyoke Book award for Excellence in Science.

Ky. Youth Conference

Representatives from the Seneca school district were from left to right Cove Ackerman, Debra Bland, Rickie Coomer, Judy Spaid, Nora Cole, and Linda Dorsey.

The Ky. Youth Con. met this summer in August to discuss and attempt to answer some of the pressing problems concerning Ky. today. Nearly 1,000 students from many organizations met at Western University for four days. The students were given a booklet to read which was to form the center of the debates and discussions which followed. The conference came to a pleasant end with a dance.

This year the Ky. Youth Conference delegates are attempting to raise funds for the next convention by selling tickets.

National Achievement

For the past six years the Nat. Merit Scholarship Corporation has sponsored the Nat. Achievement Scholarship Program for outstanding Negro students. The program is extended to more than 35,000 Negro students attending some 4,500 high schools throughout the Kentuckiana area. Among the schools in Louisville which participated are Central, Manual, Flagnet, Iroquois, Loretto, Male, St. Xavier, Shawnee, Fort Knox, J. Town, Southern, and Seneca.

Among the 34 semi-finalists to qualify are two students from Seneca, Brenda Dorsey and Jackie Pounder. These deserving Redskins, as well as the other semi-finalists, will go on to compete for $1,000 scholarships. To do so they must be endorsed by their schools, be tested for a second time, and write a description of their hobbies and goals.

Leadership Is Participation!

Ricky Stephan and Gary Lindemberger were chosen as outstanding teenagers

Ricky Stephan, President of the N.H.S.

Ellen Bailey, chosen as the third most outstanding teenager.

Garland Scott, President of the Beta Club

Carolyn Hahell, Editor-in-Chief of the Sentinel

The organizations at Seneca were built on the participation of Redskins like those pictured on this page. Without this enthusiastic action on the part of students, these groups could not have existed. Participation, like most other lasting qualities cannot be turned on or off at random. This constant devotion to duty, through action, was developed through the grade school and the high school years. The students who have developed this ability to participate are able to become leaders in the world of tomorrow

It Started With a "Teahouse"

A mood of romance surrounds the couples as they stroll around the beautiful tea garden.

Cathy Crain and Richard Bywater are greeted by Miss Richard as they arrive.

Beautiful dresses and happy hearts: this is what a prom is made of.

Shall we put out a wish and make it wish?

And Ended With the "Belle"

As the soft flow of music reached the ears of eager seniors a wonderfully memorable evening was underway. The music of the "New Classics" set against the theme of "Teahouse of the August Moon" provided an air of oriental splendor.

Couples busily traveled from table to table to visit friends and discuss the evening's activities.

The transformation from prom to breakfast was done quickly. Seniors shed their formals and tux and donned comfortable clothes in which to enjoy an evening on the Belle.

The seniors obviously enjoyed the music of Willie Mitchell as he pounded out rhythm on the Belle's dance floor. All in all, as the weary but happy seniors dragged themselves off the Belle, Lonesome, atop the Belle's spotlight, was proud to say: "Prom — Breakfast 1969, a memorable success."

Peace and love on the Belle!

'Napoleon is alive and living on the Belle.'

Terry O'Brien and Jan Fuhr are ready to board the Belle for an eve ning celebration.

Seneca seniors assemble as a group

... A Portrait in Pride

Seneca's ninth commencement service was one not soon to be forgotten. The Class of 1969, with 544 members, the largest of any Redskin graduating class, slowly proceeded onto the platform at Freedom Hall. The Seniors stood proudly as they sensed the awe they had aroused in the audience.

The multitude of thousands applauded guest speaker Robert Russell and then watched intently as each "Redskin in robe" came forward to receive his diploma. Hundreds of pictures were snapped by proud friends and parents, and the Seniors became graduates as they moved their tassels to the right of their mortar boards.

Tears of joy and sadness were mixed as Lonesome's most recent graduates solemnly sang together the Seneca High School Alma Mater. Redskin Alumni throughout the audience proudly rose to the singing, undoubtedly reminiscing of their moments on the coliseum floor. And in turn, each Senecan on stage must have viewed himself in the alumni's place, being able to recall the years of fun and work at Seneca and to look back on that one May 28, 1969, which signified both an end and a beginning.

"Your key to success!"

for the last time.

Sara Woodson was one of the lovely juniors who helped the evening move along smoothly.

You've left us now to follow
That sacred path of love.
You've also gone to join
Our heavenly Father above.

He's taken you into his arms
As soon He will take us all.
Then we'll be with you again
Within those sacred walls.

So although our hearts are sore,
And we miss you more each day,
We'll see you in that heavenly place
To which you have led the way.

Class of '64 — Together

The Knights of Columbus Hall in Buechel, rang with excitement on the night of June 28, 1969. Seneca High School Class of '64 was holding its fifth reunion. Screams of delight and enthusiasm spread through the room as loyal Redskins renewed old friendships.

Most of those present were married and some had children. Many members of the class are no longer in Louisville. Some are in the armed services overseas and some in the Peace Corps. While everyone was interested in reminiscing about the days at Seneca, more emphasis was put on the present and future.

Toward the end of the evening, a vote was held to determine which member of the class had changed the most and which the least. Jim Burgin was the winner of the former category and Larry Nuttall of the latter.

Amid good-byes and handshakes, the Redskins of '64 vowed to keep in touch with one another and to get together again soon.

Four members of the Class of '64 provided the entertainment for their class reunion.

Sandy Lillard Siegle served as hostess to her former classmates.

Reminiscing.

Squeals of excitement were heard as classmates greeted old friends.

Looking Back at '69

Peter Gault and Kathy Kloss groove to the sound of the Chappells at the senior activity.

Cathy Babs steps to the beat of the Senior band in a downtown parade.

"Come on Sherry, you can't be the whole class in there."

We'll get the sideburns next, Randy!

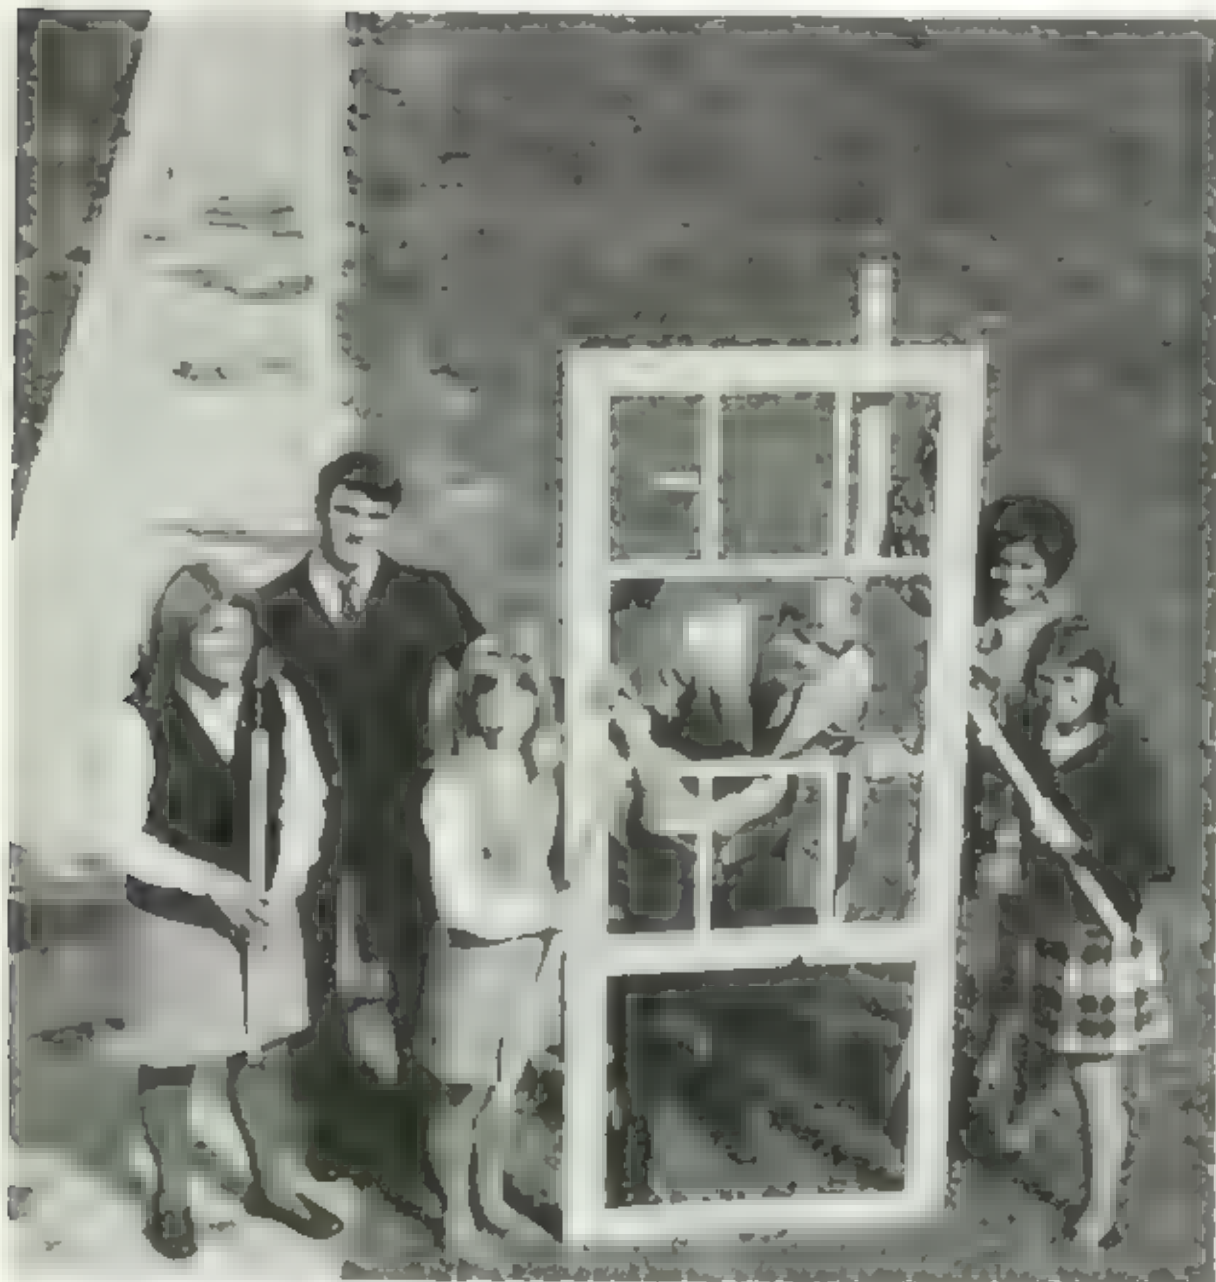

Let me say the SENIOR members of The Arrows.

The Juniors Build for the Future

The Juniors build for a great year

This year was one of the busiest for the Juniors. These dedicated Redskins were industriously building for the many activities which will occur during their Senior year. The chief contractors for this most important year were Bob Vice, President, Danny Karem, Vice-President; Andrea Rabbeth, Secretary; Roulinda Dorsey, Treasurer, and Sergeants-at-arms Gwen Gardner and Patty Hines. These enthusiastic Redskins led their class in its various money-making projects. This year the projects were the traditional Basketball Homecoming, Junior Class Variety Show and get this — something new, the Junior Class Play.

The Class of 1971 is bound to succeed with such leadership.

Looking around the halls of Seneca, a visitor might ask, "Who does most of the stuff around here?" And the answer would be the Sophomore Class

The Sophomores had a good and prosperous year, and are another year closer to graduation. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Dennis Robertson, and with officers like Steve Bush, president, Ricky McClean, vice-president, Martyne Anderson, secretary, Susan Stairs, treasurer, and Leo Nathanson and Amy Slaven sgt.-at-arms, how could they have possibly failed? And with other representatives on the Arrow and Sentinel Staffs, on the cheerleading squads, in the Band, in Beta and all the other clubs, and in all the sports, they really rolled

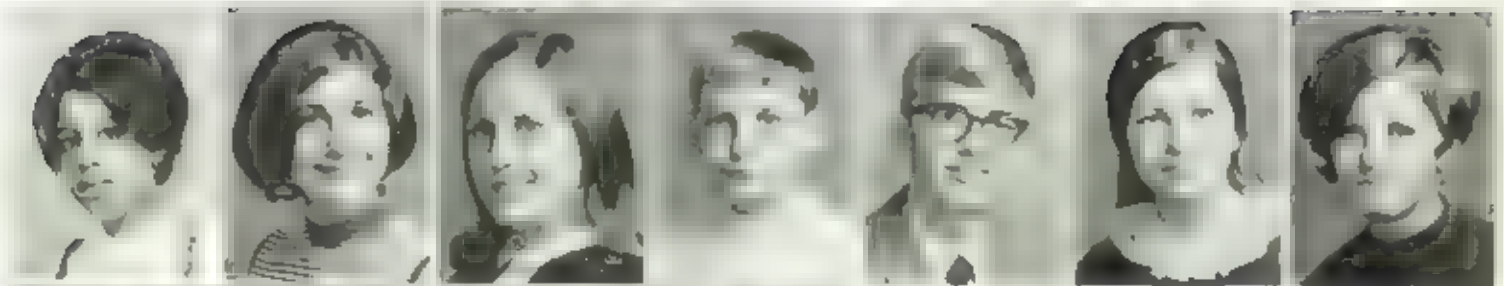

Among the fund-raising projects this year were the annual Sadie Hawkins dance and a dues drive. All were successful, and with two more years like this one, they will make it all the way to the top and beyond.

Off to another prosperous year

Merle Newlon and Nancy Potts review the summer's route.

The summer of 1969 held new excitement for senior Nancy Potts and sophomore Merle Newlon who went on a six weeks tour of western Europe. The countries visited were Italy, Switzerland, France, Belgium, and England.

The travelers flew by jet from Cincinnati, Ohio to New York. Not knowing anyone else in the group of 186 students added to the experience. Because of the time zones they were served dinner and breakfast within a three hour period (according to their watches).

Home in Rome was a Nunnery where the nuns attempted to cook American-style food. The fruit they bought to supplement this Italian-American diet tasted good until they discovered they were being overcharged five cents per piece of fruit.

An overnight train carried the tourists to Leysin, Switzerland. If you have never slept 6 in a compartment measuring 6'x10', you must make the trip yourself and try it. Here the group stayed in a college dorm where they were served such delectable items as Swiss cheese fondue and luscious chocolate. This was a welcome relief from the type of cuisine they had been treated to in Italy. The Swiss Alps are breath-taking but their cooking can't be surpassed and those dairy products are the greatest.

Next, the entourage proceeded to Paris, France. Their college campus was located in Versailles. Nancy had her picture taken with a character dressed like Louis XIV. She also had her portrait done by an artist in Montmartre. Shopping for perfume and other gift items added to the fun enjoyed in gay Par  .

It was time to take off for Brussels where the campus was almost like home. You could buy soft drinks and ice cream in the dorm, and HOT water was available! The weather was pleasant and the group played soccer, tennis, and basketball. Then, to Zeebrugge, the port from which they crossed the English Channel to Dover. Here, busses picked them up and headed for St. Gabriels College in Randow, England.

The group spent a last few days in London where last minute souvenirs were purchased. One of the last things done was to take a ride on the "tube" which is a subway system not too unlike those in the United States.

Speaking of home reminds everyone of the day of departure. The weather delayed them for ten hours but finally they took off from Gatwick Airport at 4:00 a.m. Everybody was tired but happy and full of pleasant memories of a terrific summer spent studying "on the Continent."

Freshmen: the First Step in High School

The dictionary defines a Freshman as a "Novice" but this year's class has proven to be anything but a beginner. Under the capable leadership of President, Eddie Tillett, these active squaws and braves have survived the difficult change from Junior High to Senior High easily. Their many capabilities and their tremendous school spirit show that they are determined to do their best. This year's class is also represented by Vice President, Dan Rothstein; Secretary, Susie Spurlock; Treasurer, Cindy Stone; and Sergeants-at-arms, Robert Norton and Albert Kleinman.

The members of the Freshman Class can be found in almost any function open to them at Seneca. They were well represented this year in J.V. and Freshman Cheerleading, the Student Council, the Pep Club, the band and orchestra, on the J.C.L. Calendar, and on the various ninth grade sports teams.

The class of 1973 is looking forward with excited anticipation to that day in the not-too distant future when they alone will be the leaders of Seneca. With allies like these, Lonesome's future is secure.

National Participation

One Series Redskin has scored high in the past. To gymnast Adele Caraves, it was first in the Ohio Invitational, and in dual meets at Southern Illinois University, and Southeastern Louisiana. Adele's "almosts" were in the YMCA Invitational and Turner Invitational. She scored second to Linda Metheny.

A big moment came when she was chosen as an alternate for the Cup of America team that competed in Mexico. To receive this honor, Adele ranked twelfth in the senior AAU nationals.

Series wishes Adele luck in her future competitions.

Seneca Junior High Students

The giant step that was taken by the men of science, to put a man on the moon, was made possible by education. This great event in our history should be a shining example for all of you that education has a greater importance than ever before in the history of mankind.

The two years you spend in junior high are very deciding factors in your future success and educational endeavor. Students who do well in junior high usually do well in high school. You are building the foundation for your future growth right now. So be wise and make it a firm foundation that will support future growth and expansion. The growth you make in the future can be no larger than the foundation you have made.

I hope you will all aim high and believe that you too have the ability to reach the moon.

Today's Leaders

The Seneca Jr. High is a complete school in itself. Of course, a school must have a responsible head and capable leadership. Seneca's Jr. High has such an administration. Mr. Lonnie Glasgow heads the list. However, Mr. Glasgow can not carry the whole load and this is where Mr. Earles, Mrs. Gale, and Mrs. Gleaves come in. These people, with the faculty, run the Jr. High.

Mrs. Gale and Mr. Earles are the girls' and boys' counselors. They handle all the problems with the students and help the office work run a little smoother. Mrs. Gleaves handles affairs in the office and takes care of management problems. When that's done, she is even a secretary. With leaders like this, the Jr. High is going to continue to be a great working part of Seneca High School.

Nobody is here yet. I hope it isn't Saturday!

Want to know what's happening in America, past and present? Then sit in on an Eighth Grade Core class. The students learn the history of America's past and the events that are shaping today's world.

To make the learning process more interesting, many classes have imaginative and colorful exhibits.

They often have exciting debates and discussions that go along with their studies. The students are also well drilled in grammar, literature and current events. By the time these students are ready to enter Senior High, they will be ready to accept the responsibility of making Seneca a better school than ever.

"I'll be a good teacher, really I will."

There are people who think that the younger generation isn't going anywhere, but there is one group that is going to the stars. This is Seneca's Seventh Grade, and they are doing great.

The majority of the time the students are in Core. Here, they can learn the basic parts of the English language. This allows them to communicate with the people around them. These people also learn the history of their state. This helps them to understand the affairs that shape the homes and atmosphere they live in.

Yes, these young people will do a great job in making the future for their generation a success.

Today, there is great stress on culture in a rushed and hurried world. As a result of this need for a place to relax from a nerve racking pace, Seneca provides a fine choice of arts in which a person may find a subject and develop it into a career while he enjoys himself.

There is course for the boys as well as courses to interest the girls. For the boys there is industrial arts. This course lets the boys find out whether they like to work with their hands, and then they can develop this talent into a career. The girls have Home Economics in which they can study all areas of homemaking

There is also a course that is for everyone. This is music. There are three kinds of music courses offered: instrumental, choral and general. The instrumental consists of a seventh grade band, eighth grade band and a seventh grade orchestra.

The choral department is divided into the seventh grade choruses and the eighth grade choruses. The Jr. High choruses each year participate in the All-County Music Festival. The general music course teaches the students the background of music. They also get to sample some of the musical instruments and sing.

These and other special classes help to make the Seneca student a very well rounded person.

The Student Council went to Heritage House for Christmas.

In addition to sponsoring a Valentine's Day dance, giving Thanksgiving baskets to needy families, trimming a tree and Christmas caroling at the Heritage House were on the agenda for the Junior High Student Council. Yes, these worthwhile projects are what make the student council the heart of the Junior High. This year a suggestion committee was organized to be the medium between the students and the administration. Under the capable leadership of: President, Sheldon Wishnia; Veep, Brenda Hahn; Secretary, Pam Borah; and Treasurer, Kelly Thompson; and Sponsor, Mrs. Brown, this heart pumped enthusiasm throughout the student body.

The annual Kentucky Youth Assembly was held this year at Frankfort and Seneca was well represented. There were 123 Redskins attending this meeting; all were interested in current issues and concerned with preparing themselves for the future. They stayed at the Holiday Inn in Frankfort, October 16, 17, and 18. Mock legislatures were held in the capitol during the afternoons. In these meetings they learned many things about their state government. Another important part of the assembly was electing government officials to preside over next year's meeting. Serving as Lt. Governor was Danny Richie and following his steps was another Redskin, Steve Vice, elected to serve as Lt. Governor next year. The Redskins were a major part of the Kentucky Youth Assembly this year.

The Junior High

Fifth Period Eighth Grade Chorus

The Junior High Choruses are the beginnings of Seneca's fine high school choruses. Under the direction of Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Tracy, these students are eagerly learning the fundamentals of music and choral singing. Each day they spend an hour working on the various pieces of music they will perform. The choral groups present a very enjoyable Christmas program and they also participate in the annual Jefferson County Music Festival. Lonesome is very fortunate to have so many hard-working boys and girls who are on their way to becoming fine singers. The Senior High groups can rest assured, knowing the future is in good hands

The Hi-Y Club

The Hi-Y Flag Football Team

Team A

Team B

This year was Seneca's first year in the Hi-Y Flag Football program. The Seneca team won the league and received a trophy for their efforts. Congratulations! Good luck in the future.

Seneca's Hi-Y Basketball program is comprised of two teams: Team A and Team B. The junior high boys of these teams are coached by Mr. Wayne Kirk and Mr. Joe Watzech. Both teams practice every Thursday and Friday. With most of their games being played in February and March, the teams can look forward to a good season.

Gra-Y Football

Gra-Y Tackle Football Team

The tackle football team, sponsored by the Highland Y.M.C.A. and directed by Mr. Earl Magruder, was joined by many young Seneca students fourteen years old and under. The boys started practicing in August and played football until Mid-November when the various teams got together and held their jamboree. The purpose of this organization was to teach the basic fundamentals and techniques of football and to impress the idea of good sportsmanship on these young athletes.

Junior High Basketball

The Jefferson County Board of Recreation sponsored a basketball team in the Junior High. Mr. Richardson was the coach of the team. The boys had a winning season so Fellow Redskins look out for the future!

The Sounds of the Junior High

EIGHTH GRADE BAND

To a young musician the first day in Seneca's Junior High Bands or Orchestra is a special day. They enter a special building, with its own atmosphere. This building will be home for many of these students for a part of their stay throughout their years at Seneca.

The Junior High Bands are always preparing for the time when they, too, will march down Seneca's field to entertain the fans at the game of the year or down Broadway in the Derby Parade. These hopes are guided by the capable hands of Mr. Harold Wich.

The seventh grade orchestra members don't have long to wait. In the eighth grade they will play in the high school orchestra at the year's biggest production, the Senior Play. The Junior High Bands and Orchestra have much to look forward to and are forging ahead in true Redskin Tradition.

Junior High Library Aides

Who are some of the busiest people at Seneca? The Junior High Library Aides, of course! These young redskins are gaining valuable experience for future years from working in the library. One representative is chosen from each core class to attend to the various responsibilities present whenever his class uses the library. His or her duties include keeping the encyclopedias and other reference books in order, straightening of chairs, and seeing that noise is kept to a minimum. The Library Aides are also responsible for the "overdue" notices in the core classes. Each of these students holds a big responsibility in both self-discipline and reliability and carries it out well. Their efficient work has guaranteed them a place in Lonesome's heart.

Red Cross

Through a variety of projects this year, the Junior Red Cross has added to the fulfillment of the lives of many unfortunate persons. Under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross and the direction of Mrs. Applegate, these young Redskins have helped the lives of many hospital patients, soldiers, and shut-ins.

Their projects included the making of favors that were then sent to a number of hospitals for Halloween, the buying and wrapping of Christmas presents for the children at Children's Hospital, and many other worthwhile activities.

Organizations such as the Junior Red Cross build a firm foundation for a better life through helping others.

Papoose Staff

Seneca's Junior High School will have a paper of its own this year. Papoose was chosen for the name after a contest was held. The sponsors are Mrs. Dorothy Brooks and Mrs. Roxie Hoffman. Mrs. Brooks had a class newspaper last year but it was two students in Mrs. Roxie Hoffman's class this year that initiated the paper. The paper will be designed to give more space to the Junior High School viewpoint than is possible in Seneca's other newspaper, the Sentinel. This paper is not designed to give competition to the Sentinel but rather give valuable experience to those in Junior High School that may be on the Sentinel staff in years to come.

With the co-operation of Mrs. Thornberry's typing class who will give invaluable assistance typing up the mimeographed copies, the paper will be on sale this year at a dime a copy. A real bargain!

Young Naturalists

If there had been an enthusiastic Young Naturalists group in Ben Franklin's time, the light bulb probably would have been invented much sooner. Any student ten years or older who is interested in science is eligible to join. This organization is composed of students from many parts of Jefferson County and is sponsored by the Kentucky Society of Natural History.

The members meet at least once a month under the guidance of Miss Schmid. They plan field trips and interesting meetings in which some phase of science is presented.

Perhaps, with the valuable experience, one of these students will someday aid in helping mankind.

To Linda,
a very cute & sweet girl I have enjoyed <sup>being a</sup> student aide in your Home Ec Class. Good luck always.

Our Redskin Teachers Are Tops!

MR JAMES MATTHEWS

MRS LEE JAMES

What a winter 1969-70 turned out to be! After many snows and an ice storm we were inclined to believe a circulated rumor that the Earth had entered a cycle of chill winters. Those months didn't produce any Kentucky State Championships but this page contains some real "champs." Your students want you to know that we have appreciated having quality instructors. The strike came and went but we hope you never decide to go — we need and want YOU!

The Seneca Students Stand With You

*'Men work together,' I told him from the heart,
'Whether they work together
or apart.'*

Robert Frost

To Anna
A real
sweet girl
and a good hope you
at Seneca
the boy.
your ya,
175

To Linda,

A girl with a great personality and all that rot!! I am writing this on Aug 8, 1970; a rainy ~~rain~~ party day. Always remember it & Vickie Sherman (the little -----). She always gave everybody trouble — including you. She took away your little sister (Gally Krebs). After going to the Krebs' tomorrow & wherever else

we might land, remember the fun time we had!! (I HOPE) It will be a short time
now before Amy leaves her office of Pres.
YEA!! She really did a pretty bad job & I sure she tried at least a little.
That's enough for that great Siempris
& our great sisters — They make me sick.

Hope you get any office
you want cuz you deserve
it. Lets work together this next year & really make it good.

Don't worry about
accepting ATC's bid. There is nothing wrong with being in 2 clubs.

Turn 37

Don't worry about
accepting ATC's bid. There
is nothing wrong with
being in 2 clubs.

To Linda,
 One of the greatest girls the ever met, please stay
 the way you are always.
 Good Luck in future years "15"
 friends forever

 4 GOTTEN
 EARL

To Linda,
 One of my best
 friends at Seneca and one of the cute ones.
 Stay that way. Good Luck
 in the future
 Ricky

To Linda
 one of the nicest girls
 ever "75"

To Green Eyes
 if in heaven we don't meet
 hand in hand will stand the heat
 + when it gets extremely hot.
 Remember
 Purple Color
 hits the spot
 "75" mark

(Karen)
 To Linda,
 A real sweet
 girl, a real clever
 like.
 Love to Carmine

To Linda,
 One of my best friends. Remember
 all the fun we've had.
 Karen

(Karen)
 To Linda,
 To someone I don't know very well
 From
 Danny's sister
 Teresa

Linda,
 you
 would be if you were here
 you are fighting!
 Shelly

Linda
 so a real sweet
 girl and a very cute to. I hope you will always be my friend
 Good luck
 with all the boys.

Jane &
 Janie
 6/11

LINDA
 A real cute girl
 with a personality
 to match, never forget
 all of the fun we have had in Mrs. Dillon's math class and in Mr. Howard's class hall. Good luck in the future. You'll do things.
